

What is She really Saying?

Intimacy is filled with many questions and all a person has are signs that give little hints because many people are not all out spoken of their needs behind bedroom doors.

I consider myself an active lover or did in my relationship with an ex-wife for me though it's not just about me!

I want the woman I am with to experience a more pleasurable moment than even myself because we all know if she's happy we all are ☺

Smile ladies you know it's true in my relationship this has always been my goal and it's very awkward to ask "hey" am I doing the right thing, am I too rough, not rough enough and it's gotten to the point where frustration took its role and everybody threw ~~through~~ in the towel.

I'm keeping this as forward and censored as possible there are times though when I have felt like the ultimate stud from performance. I try to be creative and always bring something new to the table an experience that exhilarates and leaves her with a big ole grin! ☺

But this subject confuses me extremely because of all the subtle signs, so how do I know what she's really saying?

Example. I speak of my ex only in reference and would never expose who she was or mean to humiliate her by this blog everyone has the preferred position

But I feel that to have more of a selection brings more creativity, and more of an experience.
I found it dull to possession my self in this awkward position "Everytime" for her just to reach her "O" not to mention thing (ü)

And the more I pushed her for something "New"
the more it frustrated her.

I even tried to compromise and played Games, with little Bets, you know if I win and if you win

"No" this Dilema has not happened with Every woman, and frankly hasit been much of a Problem But in respect with my future lover I'd like for it to be more of an open Subject.

Is this all childish of me and meaningless or am I simply worried about the wrong thing this is yet again your chance to speak freely, and yet again Reply
