

Reply ID: JM 28

I. Carmichael,

4-10-14

I do thank you for your comments it touched my heart for you to say that. I do plan on reaching out to the younger kids at different schools to share my prison experiences with them in the hopes it will deter them from getting stuck in that revolving door.

You are someone who gives me hope to keep writing and staying positive in such a very negative situation. Once I get out skies isn't no limit for me because there's footprints on the moon!

Please share my pieces with anyone you feel that may embrace such talent. I need as many people as I can to log onto my blog to view my writing.

Once again thank you, more stories from the confessions of a burdened soul, will be sent in the near future for post. God Bless you for your words of encouragement.

LeVar E. Jones