

Reply ID: hcrq

It's always good to hear from you my big brother. It seems the struggle is never far from over, so we must have the courage to meet these challenges head on. From day one, when you put my first Na'im Akbar book in my hands, and also a few law books I've always believed that you were in my corner. Sitting here in silence has been difficult and wears down the mental. But I continue to hold onto the hope that someone cares.

I am working hard through my artworks and have come very far. My artworks will be in a few upcoming events. I'll get in touch with my people as soon as possible. And I'll be in touch very soon.

Daniel Gwynn

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Daniel Gwynn", with a large, stylized flourish at the beginning.