

Reply ID: jj9d

You are so right about black on black crime. To me it's as if we're killing ourselves in a fit of self-hatred. We seem not to like our selves as a by-product of the socio-psychological dissemination of the black culture, pride & unity. History shamefully depict the beat down of the black race, which was to enslave not only the body but the mind as well, all in the name of Capitalism. Part of the psychological trauma stems from the germination of pitting blacks against each other over the course of a century to keep us divided: slavery (House Niggers & Field Niggers); The Civil Rights Movement; and The Drug War. The Willie Lynch Papers laid out a diabolical plan to control the slaves, which affects are still being felt to this day. I'm mad at us because by now we should know better.

Daniel

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Daniel", with a large, sweeping flourish at the end.