

My Future Vision

Twenty years from now I would like to be a successful business man that lives in the free world. I want to have my own company or to work for a charitable organization as management. I will have a base camp consisting of an office and a studio apartment. I hope to travel for business; meeting a lot of people. Furthermore, I long to organize individuals and events to fulfill other's physical and spiritual needs. I look forward to having a personal assistant, a driver, and men of integrity to accompany me. The men will be there to protect my reputation and assist me in God's work. As I move about this and other countries, I will help those in need and preach the Gospel; teaching many to do the same. I will also counsel godly men to help them achieve greater service to the Lord. I intend to mentor them to become leaders of the faith.

I want to have all the office equipment I need and to wear cloths suited for every occasion. That includes tailored business attire. I desire a Master's degree in business administration. It will help me to work with and evangelize business owners and executives. I will also reach out to the poor and down trodden. As the Apostle Paul stated: I will be all things to all people that some might be won to Christ. I envision having a wife who is similiarly educated and dedicated to Jesus our Lord.
