

GUIDES WANTED

Since facts remain constant, and therefore indisputable, here is a fact. As an innocent falsely convicted of murder and condemned to death, I hold the moral high ground...

Here is another fact. As long as I am held in relative obscurity behind the dungeon walls of Florida's death row. The fact of my holding the moral high ground will continue to be distorted by the false representation of the facts imposed on me. Therefore hindering me from bringing forth the evidence proving the false facts are distortions of the truth and as such are disputable...

Another fact is, if I allow myself to grow dispondent, I will not prevail through the writing of this blog to vindicate myself of any kind of murder...

The fact I am held falsely imprisoned and only have pen and paper to use in reaching out for help. makes this blog the pathway for me to reach significant numbers to create the influence in compelling the five trial level attorneys to address the irreparable prejudice the withheld favorable evidence had on them to provide me with a fair and impartial trial. Which will vindicate me of any kind of murder and restore my freedom...

The fact this blog is the pathway leading to my vindication and freedom. Still leaves me needing assistance to guide significant numbers to my blog in order to succeed at creating the influence to compel the five trial level attorneys to come forward...

A sad fact is I have thus far failed to obtain support in guiding significant numbers to my blog...

Although the fact I am still putting pen to paper means due to holding the moral high ground, I have faith and will succeed !!!
