By delia

I promise not to hurt you, or cause your heart pain, promise the love I give to you, will not be in vain, can't promise you the mountains, or stars in the sky, I would give them to you, if I could reach that high I would promise to cross the ocean, only if I could, and my chances on survival, are not that slim. can only promise you things, I know I can give, like being devoted to you, and in your heart I'll live, my heart is yours, please be patient and wait, say you'll be waiting for me, so we can run off and escape promise to do whatever it takes, making sure your full all you have to do is ask, and for you I will.
I'm all yours, and I put that on all I love, on the moon, in the sky, and the stars above.
The love I have for you, will never be obsolete, it'll never die, so there's no white flag of defeat, please forgive me for that, rough rugged start, lord give the strength to me, to mend her broken
