- * Broad River still does not have Friday visits back, but they are in consideration for the near future; they were only taken when a special pre-release program was here, but now that program is gone and Fridays are once again available, they just need the official approval to be reopened for general population to use.
- * As some of you may remember--Jennifer--it's just like when I was at the McCormick prison, you just pick a morning, or an evening, and come at your leisure.

* Any questions in need can be emailed to me directly at:

The South Carolina Department of Corrections has now placed computer kiosks in all dorms, giving inmates an access port to the net to receive and send email. It's pretty cool, we even use it to communicate with prison staff, and SCDC headquarters. Soon, it's said, we'll be able to monitor our money accounts from the dorm kiosks, order property items, and possibly even download music.
