

NFL Picks before Pre-season

I didn't get to keep up with the Draft, but my picks are going to be pretty safe. Remember I don't have the schedules and I completely missed the draft, so I might change up my picks after I get more info. I'm pretty good at this stuff so bear with me.

AFC

Denver Broncos
Indy Colts
Cincy Bengals
Miami Dolphins

Playoffs

K.C. Chiefs
N.E. Patriots

Wild Cards

NFC

S.F. 49ers
G.B. Packers
Carolina Panthers
New York Giants

N.D. Saints
Arizona Cardinals

My craziest picks first, New England's offense is getting old and injury prone. I wouldn't be surprised to see Brady get traded next year. Miami, I actually picked these guys to beat out the Patriots for the division last year, so I'm simply being stubborn ☺.

N.Y. Giants, somebody gotta win the worst division in football and Eli and his coach have won 2 Superbowls. They gotta stay healthy though.

Arizona Cardinals, if they weren't in one of the toughest divisions they would of made it last year.

S.F. 49ers, it's their year barring injury they're in the big one.

S.B. Packers, if they stay healthy "Rodgers", they got the division.

Indy Colts, good solid team but they need more defense.

K.C. Chiefs, good team, good coach needs more upset offense.

N.D. Saints, great offense needs stiffer defensive line.

Denver Broncos, great offense needs a takeaway defense. Peyton is the best QB in football this is the only team that worries me.

Cincy Bengal, great defense, explosive offense - All they need is a solid #2 WR. and Andy Dalton needs to relax in post season games. Look for them to play S.F. in Superbowl 49 ☺.