

"Cherish your vision, cherish your ideas, cherish the music that stirs in your heart, the beauty that forms in your mind, the loveliness that drapes your purest thoughts. For out of them will grow all delightful conditions, an heavenly environment. Of these, if you but remain true to them, your world will at last be built."

- James Allen

The love between man and woman is the greatest and most complete passion the world will ever see, because it is dual of two opposing kinds. I seek to serve in that love and take my whole passionate, spiritual, and physical love to the woman who in return loves me. Without the concept of a team, you'll always going to have conflict. If you see partnership, your romantic relationship, as a team, everything will start to improve.

A man shall know the natural law of his own being. Then he shall seek out the law of the female with which to join himself as complement. He must know that he is half and the woman is the other half, and that they are two, but that they are two in one.

To me, success in a relationship is more than finding the right person. It is being the right person. I believe that you have to accept yourself and love yourself just the way you are. Only by loving and accepting yourself the way you are, can you truly express what you are. When you accept yourself completely, you will feel good about yourself and feel happy. This is self love. It is a personal importance because you should treat others with the same love, honor, respect, and gratitude you use with yourself. It's about honoring the God inside each other.

I've had my heart broken before, but I refuse to allow those mishaps to hold a negative effect on my life. With every change, a new being emerges. A new rhythm establishes itself. We renew our life as we grow older, and there is real peace. I think life ought to be fun, the greatest fun, and not just merely "having a good time", but real fun in being yourself.

To master a relationship is all about you. The first step is to become aware, to know that everyone dreams their own dreams. Once you know this, you can be responsible for your half of the relationship, which is you. If you know that you are only responsible for your half of the relationship, you can easily control your half. It is not up to us to control the other half. If we respect, we know that our partner is completely responsible for their half. If we respect the other half, there is going to be peace in the relationship.

The only way to master love is to practice love. You don't need to justify your love. You don't need to explain your love. You just need to practice your love. Practice creates the master.

Be Blessed,
