

PEOPLE V. DARLENE A. VARGAS - JULY 10th 2014

It's been a long while since I've posted anything mainly because I haven't really had anything positive to say. Everything's been pure HELL. Guards Hatin' on me, etc. It's been so bad that I don't even want to relive it by writing about it.

But Now - I got the best news I could ever get: There's a case that just got ruled on July 10th 2014 that says you can only get one strike for one act or "course of action." My strikes came from an armed robbery where I took a gun from somebody and he had 2 friends with him so they called that 3 armed robberies. I've always known that was Bullshit but now the Cal. Supreme Court agrees. All that happened way back in 1984!

So now it's all about filing a writ to correct that CRAP. This is going to help so many people that were unjustly thrown away by the Hated STATE. They ruined so many lives and families by abusing their so-called authority and the 3 strikes assault on the citizens. I've been down for 15 years and my kids had to grow up without their DAD all because the state wrongfully sentenced me. They knew it was Bullshit back in 1999 when they sentenced me but the "Judge" just said I can appeal it.

Now how many people are going to have their Life sentences overturned and get out mad at the world? I know what it's like to sit here and stew on the wrongs done to me in the name of "Justice." What I was accused of was no where near what actually happened. The victim felt the need to really embellish things to ensure a conviction. That's why the story changed 3 times! But even if it went down exactly like that..

an Assault w/a Deadly Weapon only carries a 4yr MAX. And I know people who have been down longer than me for a lot less. And they're a lot madder than me, too. There's a lot of people plotting a lot of revenge for the injustices done. Oh well. They brought that shit on. Now they'll have to deal with it. Good thing I have such a grip on myself and my ~~pacifist~~ pacifist ways!

My family is looking into getting me an attorney to file for me instead of taking the chance of doing it myself or having one of these jailhouse paralegals do it. It really seems like a slam dunk, but as everyone who knows me knows: if it can be fucked up in any way, Ill be the one to do it.

Meanwhile, I now have Level 4 points so I'll be moving up to that pretty soon. And I don't even care. It's actually a relief. When you have Level 4 points, then their "points" mean nothing. It doesn't matter if you get anymore write-ups because there is no level 5. When I was in CSP-LAC level 4 in Lancaster most people there made sure to catch a couple write-ups whenever their points dropped too low just so they could stay there. The higher the level you go, the better the people. The serious and the solid are in level 4's, where there are repercussions for your actions. And that's how it should be. It's frustrating to be in a prison where there are no repercussions. There's a lot of crap walking this line. But let's not get into that. I'm only really concerned with myself at this point. I don't care whatever else happens as long as the courts follow the law and make things right!

O: O: