

THE LIMITS OF TYRANTS

By Fredrick Douglas reading 579

Those who profess to favor freedom and yet deprecate agitation, are people who want crops without plowing up the ground' They want rain without thunder and lighting' they want the ocean without the awful roar of its waters.

This struggle may be a moral one or it may be both moral and physical; but it must be a struggle.

Power concedes nothing without a demand; it never did and it never will.

Find out what people will submit to, and you have found out the exact amount of injustice which will be imposed upon them.

The limit of tryants are prescribed by the endurance of those whom they oppress.
