Thanks for the feedback, Melanie. I don't know what happened, but you apparently posted this comment back in May, and somehow I didn't get it until Sept. 18th. Weird.

I'm going to try to add a few entries more directly connected with this cage experience soon. I ~~was~~ (not using Word sucks! Lol!) fell off from writing for a while, mainly because it seems like no one is reading. But I realize no one will read for sure if I don't post, so... I will.

I was a little confused by your comment about the pages scanning out of order but being corrected in a typed transcription... I had no idea any of this was ever transcribed. I still don't really know what the blog layout looks like, since my one buddy who's actually checked it out hasn't had a chance yet to send me a full print-out of everything on my blog and the homepage for this site. It's weird contributing to something you can't even fully visualize. Oh, and, are you a sysop then, or some sort of site administrator? Because you mentioned doing transcriptions, it made me wonder.

Thanks again for the feedback. I'll be adding more soon. Some ideas have been percolating [↑].
