

TITLE: A BOY TO A MAN...

Dated 11-11-14

I'm sitting here writing this because it's been on my mind to get these thoughts that are facing through my head down on paper so I can help "You" to connect with ME, a little more..

I was thinking about the person I have become over the years and I realized that a lot of what I have learned has helped me to grow into a better man.. The loss of freedom, speech, decision making and even "love" in a way, has taught me to value those things that a lot of people out in the regular world take for granted.. A lot of people really never sit down to realize how precious life is because you are moving too fast.. You miss so much.. THINK ON IT...

TAKE YOUR FREEDOM For instance!! A lot never realize how much it means to make choices on your own, in here "ALMOST" ALL your choices are made for you.. When to work, sleep, go outside, EAT, Go to the store or even when to call home.. All those choices are made for you and it's crazy cause after awhile if you are one of the few who realize that you should be doing this for yourself, then, you're becoming a man.. A man should be doing all those things, not sitting in a place where it's done for you.

I've missed out on so much in my life but at the same time I have gained some wisdom that is priceless.. I've grown into a Man who realizes is so precious! You should never take any of your life for granted. I'm a man who is ready to finish this last bit of time! go home so I can enjoy life and hopefully meet that special someone! experience life together.

Anyways, I figured I would put this up on my page and hear what your thoughts are on it and anything else
you may wish to share.

Don't hesitate to throw some questions or comments my way.

I'm out for now, PEACE! Blessings....

yours truly

Brandon Carter