

A black and white photograph of Oprah Winfrey standing in a garden. She is wearing a wide-brimmed straw hat and a light-colored, short-sleeved button-down shirt. She is smiling broadly and holding a large, overflowing basket of leafy greens, likely lettuce, in front of her. The garden has rows of plants, and the lighting is bright, creating strong shadows.

“Whatever our dreams, ideas, or projects, we plant a seed, nurture it—and then reap the fruits of our labors.” —Oprah
