As you can see I had the comment section disabled. B.T.B. told me I could have it placed back up if I wished. There was too much bickering and arguing. The last straw was the name calling. That wasn't a productive discussion and that incident led me to have the comment section turned off.

I didn't like the way the comment section to begin with when people can hide behind pseudonyms it allows them to be irresponsible, bullying with no accountability. If I'm going to say something, I'm not going to cowardly hide behind a pseudonym. Guys in here have told me that I need to do that. Write about the EDOC warden ect but don't sign it. That's not me. Never has been never will be. Coward's hide. What I write is what I feel and I have no qualms about signing my signature.

When I wrote "Total Disrespect" an essay about the last warden and the DUI rumors surrounding him in 2011, I sent him a copy. I signed it. That was stupid of me to even write about it. Would I do it again? Absolutely not! "Cause I underestimated them. Which caused my mother to lose her visits in September 2011. Would I have wrote it under a pseudonym? No!! "Cause its cowardly,

so because of the arguing, name calling the no accountability hiding behind these pseudonyms there will be a no comment section on this blog. sorry I had to do this, but it needed to be done.

God bless all of you

In Peace + Love
