You do understand that what you know of this case is one sided? You have never heard anything from me. I AM INNOCENT! As you post your comments they seem to open up more questions than make any clear statement. Who are you? What is your story? What would your words be if not "PROUD?" "but I was a mother as well....."? Will you share? What if this was an opportunity to understand & help each other? Allow me to share a piece of my story. For 20 yrs. while I've been incarcerated I've been separated from my mother. Lost inside this prison madness. A few yrs. ago I started doing artwork & it began to mirror something greater. All I have is my mother & while you may judge & condemn me. My time is now to share w/ my mother the gratitude for her unconditional love & understanding. I can not imagine what it is to lose a child or the mother & your child take someone else's life. Maybe where I am now I can honor my mother & in turn honor all mothers who have endured this cold world. What are mothers to do? What you think & feel abt me may be correct & I accept it. But I would have "mothers" come together. While the world would lynch & cast me into hell. My mother is "PROUD" of me & "would not give [me] up for anything in the world!!!" Do you understand what this means to me? If god himself would not forgive my mother would. If I can assist you in any way please let me know. I wish 2015 that you are healthy & blessed.
