

①

Feb. 4, 2015

Hi ya'll! Long time no see. I thought that for this post I would tell you about one of the best movies I have watched in a very very very long time.

If I Stay! This movie is brilliantly and beautifully filmed. It is about a girl who is feeling like she just doesn't fit into her family. She is into Classical music while her family is into Classic Rock. The movie takes place in Portland, Oregon and the sound track is just amazing.

This girl is approached by this boy who is in a band that is becoming very popular. They start going out and make plans to live together after she graduates from High School. He gets signed to a label and starts touring. She secretly applies to a very famous school in New York City, Juilliard. She doesn't tell her boyfriend until she gets an addition. But the news isn't good. He doesn't like it because she is wrecking their plans. They break up.

She goes to the addition and ends up playing the best she has ever played.

For most of the movie, she is in a coma because of a really bad accident which ends up killing her parents and little brother.

This movie made me cry a lot and even ~~weppt~~ wept once. If you watch it, be prepared with a couple of tissues. You'll need it. I did!

It's a great movie that not all will like but some will love.

(2)

It has been a long time since I've written. Sorry for it.

Tomorrow is Feb. 5, 2015 which means that I will only have 3 years left exactly. I am scared but also excited.

I've gotten into contact with my adoptive dad who I haven't heard from for like  $5\frac{1}{2}$  years. He found me due to this blog, my blog. That make Three now who have contacted me due to the blog. I love it.

Last Sept. we performed The Winter's Tale by Shakespeare. And for the first time I was able to have some guests. My aunt & uncle came up to see me in the play. It was one of the greatest nights of my life, to be able to share that with them. They had a great time too. I also told them that night that they were my best friends. We laughed, we cried, we had a wonderful time.

The next week when we performed it again, I had another guest, one who I had not seen for just about 14 years or so. She and I ~~went~~ went to High School together. After school, we kinda lost track of each other until 2011 when she found my blog and wrote to me. I was nervous to see her but the moment I saw her walk through the door, I was just happy. This one of the other best nights of my life.

I stay to myself a lot lately, stay in my cell. I do get out. I go to crochete' activities night, Toast Masters, and Dialog group. I also still have my job here in the laundry. But other than that, I stay home. There are people, lots of people I just do not Care to be around and socialize with. The more time I do the more I find that I do not care for most people and their childish ways. I say grow up, have fun, but grow up. I still watch cartoons and ~~joke~~ joke around, but I also have intelligent conversations too. That's just me!

③

Valentines Day is Coming up and I am wondering who you are spending it with. I do not get to "Spend" it with the one I love. But after July 21, 2018 I will be able to. I have never had this experience and when I do, it better be like I have seen in movies. I want the roses and chocolate, movie and dinner. Then a nice walk together. I wish you all a beautiful and lovely night.

Well world I bid you all a good night.

Take Care and

Good Bye!

Ray A.