

THE RIGHT TO CHOOSE ?

With the growing concerns over the death penalty drug shortage, several States have opted to bring back the old methods of execution.

7 states are seeking to re-instate the electric chair. 4 states are going in the direction of a gass chamber. ofcourse utah is returning to its wild west method of firing squad.

Texas still has the hanging tree's outside most of its court houses. These were the chosen methods of execution into the 1930's when the state took over executions with ole sparky. That day Texas straped 4 in the chair and fried um.

Seems the death penalty is digressings backwards, as a advanced civilised society this is suprising in this technologaly advanced age.

Poses the question do death row prisoners have a right to not suffer cruel & unusual punishment? Do they have a right to choose how they die ?

At what point does it appear to be revenge ? Call it what you may... retribution - is just another word for revenge.
