

• Purple Flames •

Don't you know

every stone you throw
is a strike against you?

That with a stroke of a pen

they can legally stain you.

They can silence you forever.

For they don't want to see you educated.

They much rather have you barricaded.

Enslaved.

Why you think they let the stores get looted?
instead of coming to their aid?

Yes, you were masked

but if your moms could recognize you

so could they.

To them it's just a waiting game

and you're the prey.

The more people get vandalized

the more they will hate.

Hate will move through entire neighbor hoods.
never leaving their gates

And it will only become stronger with age.

The fed up will rage

the streets will explode once again.

And the man
will recline back in his chair
and say, "My, look at those beautiful flames."