Received your blog message. 30-days seems to be the average time it takes for me to receive a print-out of messages. I don't know how long it takes for my messages to be posted though — let me know, please.

So let me reply to your comments: e-bay seller (CALARISART) turned out to be a swindler. I wonder if there is a Better Business Bureau type agency to report e-bay brokering swindles to? I actually expected as much and I didn't submit any artwork that I couldn't afford to lose. But it is a let down, just the same. Such a site could be a lucrative enterprise if the broker's reputation was honest and fair.

There is a different site at PRISONART.com, which seems to be the ideal site with corresponding integrity, but this site requires a third-party to manage possession — and mailing of the artwork. I've yet to find anyone willing to take on the responsibility though. It's beyond my understanding how this method of co-operation is not available to me — which would give my pathetic existence in exile some sort of worthwhile purpose... but that is kinda what seeing the forest through the trees is all about, I suppose, in that my people are simply too busy to take on yet another activity to assume responsibility for. In this case entailing: Receiving/Stowing artwork and e-mailing digital photo of each piece to site manager — who is simply acting the broker between buyer and seller, and expects the integrity of the seller to mail the product post haste (contact PrisonArt.com for more info).

You can only create, ye say? Yea, Conceive it, Believe it, Achieve it! Does indeed require co-operation, doesn't it? "Let there BE" does need be received, to be achieved — and sadly most of the prospective "receivers" have become jaded by the burdens of life as it is already. Sad it is, for them — and me! In your math equation, I think that digits are altered (jaded) and consequently, our universe is not as it could BE.

Law makers, banking system, false flags; all quite valid — but why curse the darkness, rather than BE The LIGHT? Knowledge is Power to rise above the lies of False Evidence Appearing Real (FEAR)! If and when our focus remains on what we can DO right, instead of concentrating on what is being done wrong, our own lives will be so much more re-warding!

Facebook^{ed} and Tweet^{ed} my WANTED flier? Thank you. It is amazing what the internet can do! Butterfly Effect, indeed. Pg 1/4

Our inter^(net) connectedness can be metamorphic, and it would be nice to be coaxed out of my purgatorial cocoon to flutter around in cyberspace awhile. Even if a comm. cycle on this site takes two moons to complete; the Gulf (of Luke 16²⁶) can be crossed! And quicker yet when writing snail mail: Wm Goehler, #K-77832, Box 409020, Lone, CA 95640.

So, on my 18th year in exile now, it appears that Lazarous livith and has much to say. Oh! and speaking of the beggar... what do you suppose the last judgement of Matthew 25^{31/46}, is really all about? I do not mean to imply any correspondence to the attached two pages from Just Right PACKAGES... but... Montana Mike & Merrly have been ministering to MY Care Packages of vittles every three months for years, and I told them that I'd try to have other people contribute. The vitamins and suppliments they've added along with food items, have made a world of difference to my overall physical and mental health, so if anyone reading this would like to chip-in what they can, when they can, it is a blessing indeed.

Dude! Have you seen the new movie with Jeff Bridges and Meryl Streep called THE GIVER? You've gotta watch it - and you'll see why. You wrote: to actually free mankind from the dictatorship control it has suffered... You'll see, it's somewhat like the old Matrix movie in that few have the courage ~ and fewer yet, the fortitude, to literally break the chains of conformity (without resentment) and win their FREEDOM.

Be blessed.
