in eastern european demographic war there is a interplay between non-conventional & conventional forces, with nonconventional forces with a focus on becoming a conventional force, along the lines of a western conventional model, this is a sign that for a non-conventional force success in battle depends at least in part on the realization & actualization of what type of conventional force it can be, a nonconventional force is best suited to lateral formation, & is ill suited to vertical formation, philippines, eastern india, southern sudan, central african republic, mali, these are countries with low level insurgencies, write to me at, robert thrower #47717 AVCF Unit L-A-2-6 Ord 12750 Highway 96 Ordway, CO 81034
