"Just A Thought"

sitting here all alone, wishing that I had a woman in my life to fill the empty space, that only a woman can fill. This is a rough spot to be in. Some guys are lucky in love, I just don't happen to be one of them.

I so, so badly miss the touch of a woman, the embrace, soft hug tender kiss, and just thinking about it makes me yearn for it all that much more. Her smell, her feel, her being, for there is hands down, no greater creation than that of a woman!

eyes - how I miss that relationship, I see women visiting guys, and I think to myself how lucky they are.

I've had some beautiful women, I'll share a photo of Tracy and I that was taken back in Sept 1989. She was the love of my life, and I hope that she's found love and happiness. I haven't heard from her in over 25 years. I often stare at this photo, and wish I could go back to that moment. But unfortunately, there is no do overs, you live and die with the decisions that you make in life. So take it from me, choose your decisions wisely. Before you wind up in a lonely existence, on a dead end road to no where.

well - I was just sitting here lonely, thinking about everything, and nothing at all, and put the pen to paper.

until next time, God bless you all.

In Peace & Love
