- DSM VI TO ADD NEW "DISORDER" TO PSYCHIATRIC MANUAL - "DICKITIS"

The National Institutes of Health will add a new disorder to the the psychiatric Diagnostic and Statistical Manual, or DSM VI. The updated version will define the mental illness "Dickitis" with the following definition;

"A reverse form of the Stockholm Syndrome in which the captor starts to comiserate with the captive through the reading of prisoner blogs in thier spare time. The disorder is indicative of a total lack of a "life" as what freeworld person would spend their time reading the blogs of the captives they oversee as the scum of the earth and the dregs of humanity.

ShirleyWorld played a huge role in this disorder getting added to the DSM VI. You see the study patient, or patient "zero" as the study calls him, was none other than our own Lt. Dick McHardly (he has "McHardly" ever lost a fight with a handcuffed con over the age of 65). Lt. Dick, known as "The Big Dick" to his co-workers, was thoroughly analyzed by one of the crack mental health staff here, Beth "Big Red" Headshrink, who recommended his case to Dr. Hassen Ben Sobah of the Partnership for Correctional Health Care. The complete case file details severe alcoholism, fake industrial accident reports, sneak trips to the ManHole Lounge in Provincetown, as well as obsessive prisoner blog reading. The study showed how when you have absolutely no life, and your whole world is wrapped up in pretending that your more than just a turnkey screw, you fill the void by reading prisoner blogs; to hell with volunteering at the local shelter or food pantry, you find importance in the writings of convicts. In honor of the patient who was at the heart of the new diagnosis the NIH decided to name the disorder after him. "Dickitis" will now appear in the psychiatric lexicon to be used when these correctional bitches call the MCOFU "Stress Line" and speak about knawing on a 9mm Bagel. In the words of an unnamed convict, "Are you shittin' me? These fuckin' layabouts are home reading prisoner blogs? That would be the fucking day I'd be on the computer reading some screw's MCOFU message board in my spare time! What's a matter?, no Chippendale's Shows around?" Seems to be a lot of "Dickitis" around lately as we here at Free Speech Central hear guards laughing about the "Peckerhead Chronicles", the "Urine Follies", and the "Bitch Biographies". Viva Freee Speech! Hey you Big Dick, drop the mouse and back away from the prisoner blog!

- MORE COPS / MORE CHAOS / STILL CANNOT GET IT DONE

The moved some of the oxygen wasters from ConcordWorld over here to ShirleyWorld after they closed some prison blocks there. So what do they do here at ShirleyWorld? They turn up the abuse. The other nights they had a half dozen Pigs at each door of the chowhall, in and out, and were patting prisoners down, just case' they can. They have had a rash of fake fire drills where they stroll into the blocks playing grab ass and tear through cells. Movements are still not on time and the operations are just as whack as ever. More cops = more chaos. No matter how many pigs you give them they cannot get it done here at ShirleyWorld!

More To Come...
