"People"

The everyday normalcy, of life is Sometimes taken advantage of, like being truly (free) From the burdens of bondage from oneself, why do we stand in the midst of hurt and sorrow and (mock) and laugh at the man who lay down his pride and asks to borrow $, to feed and nourish his family because he's not allowed a chance at employment so that he'll be able to take care of his responsibilities, but lending a helping hand seems too much, considering we're not receiving anything in return, or judging before we know the truth, so we pollute our thoughts with pity instead of asking that man what is he good at, and lettin it blossom
