

UHURU REPORT:
21st Century Prisons

By Prince Atum-Ra Uhuru Mutawakkil
A.K.A. Norman C. Green, II

A few months before the State of Wisconsin opened up the doors to its multi-million dollar Supermax prison, a secret meeting was allegedly held in which prison officials and government officials came together, off the record, to discuss how the unwritten policies (regime) at the Supermax Correctional Institution (SMCI) should be established.

The following is a compilation of shorthand notes of what was allegedly said by those in attendance at this meeting (which included the National Security Council to the White House, key members of the Mid-West Gang and Disruptive Group Investigators, etc.).

These notes were written and passed on to me by a concerned State of Wisconsin government employee and citizen of humanity. For the sake of this person's safety, and person's name shall remain unknown. However, this material was turned over to me because, as this person related to me, part of the material on display at this gathering was records and files of some of Wisconsin's targeted prisoners, and the person had the opportunity to view my file at this time.

SMCI (Supermax Correctional Institution) is called by some the "Wisconsin Death Tomb," or "The Zombie Lab." The prison is hidden off in the back mountains and surrounded by big trees. The walls inside make it seem underground (Tombs of Death), so that once entered, there is no return.

It is called "The Zombie Lab" because of the regime they use to program you into being what they want, forcing you by threat and violence to participate in their phase level system and behavior modification/management continuums. For example, one of the tools [of threat] they use is controlling the water in the toilets. [As an example of behavior modification,] they have their own selected TV programming to be used as brain washing. The regime is designed to re-program you by using the same methods used by Nazis and the Russian governments during the Cold War, but modified and watered-down. The method comes from a Dr. Edgar Schein, who is very educated on the Nazi programming used by Hitler, and this methodology is consistent with what SMCI is about.

The authors of the shorthand notes felt assured that I would make the public aware of these behind-the-door discussions. Whereas it is common policy to have these meetings recorded and open for public viewing, the secrecy makes it all the more clear they have something to hide.

Speaker: (Addressing the ideas and topic of "programming the un-wanted men in society.")

"In order to produce marked changes of behavior and/or attitude, it is necessary to weaken, undermine, and remove the supports of the old patterns of behavior and attitudes, i.e., of independent thinking and self-worth, creating inferiority.

"Most of these supports are face-to-face confirmations of the present behavior and attitudes, that are provided by those who [maintain] close emotional ties and relations. Therefore, the removal of supports can and shall be done either by removing the prisoner physically and preventing any communication with those whom he cares about, or by proving to him that those whom he respects aren't worthy of respect and, indeed, shall be highly mistrusted. Once this process has been started, he will seek those whom he feels most close to, in most cases, family and close relatives. At this point you must make communication with the outside seem impossible and he must feel that no one in society cares about him any more. You must turn his love for them (for wife, family, friends, even kids) into constant disappointment, and [make contact] inconsistent, [so there is a] lack of continuity. After disappointment upon disappointment, the [experience] of dis-association with them [will bring feelings of] hatred, and abandonment. Then this hatred must become rage in order to break him and bring him to his weakest point before introducing programming ([creating] anti-social behavior). The programming will instill in him that the only reprieve, the only way to ever be loved and cared for again, is through the programming, by turning over his free will. He must look on you as a Prophet (prison guards), and the prison as the throne which God resides on (the Administration), so that to him there is no other way to survive.

"The following methods may be used to prepare and begin the desired programming. At the Boscobel Supermax, these are the most effective methods of neutralizing and controlling the people, or outcast individuals, who hold a course or position in opposition to your way of life, your way of doing things. These people can never have the same freedoms that you and I have. The Laws of Nature and the nature of man's greed or desire, rarely meet on common ground. [can you explain what you mean by this?]

"1) Physical Removal: Physically remove the prisoner to areas that are controlled, segregated and sufficiently isolated to effectively break and seriously weaken close emotional ties.

"2) [Segregate Leaders]: The immediate segregation of all inside political or religious prisoners that are natural leaders (i.e., the natural leader is the person everyone looks up to for protection, the big brother or father figure—he is the one everyone asks questions of, legal/political and religious/spiritual guidance especially—or any advice, period). They are well educated in their own history/culture and others [things]. There is a politically incorrect term for some of these people, depending on what group they come from, and I'll just leave it at that! However, these leaders must be isolated to get at the weak and less educated. This will also serve to show your superior force. For example,

1 in the wild, where many of these prisoners come from (but here I'm speaking of the more
2 pleasant animals), if you kill the strongest and the fastest of the pack, it will for the 3 moment break the pack's loyalty and obedience and strength until such time as a new 4 natural leader steps up or is elected. Here, with prisoners, the same method must be 5 applied, sometimes [even] death, this is the most effective [method].

7 "3) [Cooperative Leaders]: Use of cooperative prisoners as leaders, that is, let 8 them be seen as ones who can speak to the Administration as spokespersons and get relief 9 when requested, to build trust in themselves. Then use them to move others to where it is 10 desired. It will be best to get not-so-educated prisoners. The black prisoners, or Afro-11 Americans, are easy to handle and manipulate like this for some rewards. It usually gets 12 them set fairly well.

14 "4) [Prohibition of Groups]: Prohibition of group activities not in line with 15 the designed and desired programming objective. This means, no contact/relations, or 16 restrictive contact at least, with the N.A.A.C.P., or churches in the community, especially 17 black churches (they have too much political influence). The Nation of Islam shall be 18 considered the most threat, because Islam as a whole is a problem with these programs.
19 However, I do caution you that it is possible to use these groups to win over certain 20 prisoners. However, you must have total control of this group's input and 21 material/literature that is to be used in the Administration. I encourage you not to use 22 them.

24 "5) [Surveillance]: Spying on the prisoners when they have a moment to 25 themselves or think they have a moment of peace. In certain settings, other prisoners
26 would be used for this, but in this case you will have to put other prisoners in rooms next 27 to the prisoner desired to be monitored, and have the informant report back private 28 material to compile and be used to discredit, disrespect, and shame. The intercom system 29 is one of the effective intelligence agents.

30
31 "6) Confessions. Encouraging by creative means the signing of written 32 statements that are then shown to others (i.e., family, girlfriends, members of gangs, 33 religions, etc.). If necessary, you have to use force and threats, and do so where it is not 34 reportable. Remember that you cannot view these prisoners as "human beings" as the 35 prisoners' rights groups advocate. In order for this programming to work most 36 effectively, you must program the front line officers into viewing the prisoner as 37 something other than human—a wild beast, an animal to be feared and controlled, not 38 trusted at all times. [Program them into believing that] life and death depend on these 39 attitudes.

41 "7) [Exploitation]: Exploitation of the opportunities or of opportunistic
42 prisoners and informants. I can give you examples of this, but you must use your own 43 judgment of situations, so on that basis I will not taint your mind with my experiences or 44 examples. [can you explain this more?]
45

1 "8) Trust: It is imperative to convince prisoners that they can't trust anyone
2 they come in contact with, even family. This can be achieved by reading out-going and 3 in-coming mail to family and loved ones, take certain aspects of these that are personal or 4 private and intimate thoughts, and then bring this to the attention of the prisoner. Tell 5 him his family called the Administration and told about his complaints and that they 6 requested he be monitored because he has written home and is unstable and having 7 thoughts of killing himself. This will soon cause mistrust with the prisoner and his 8 family. You will hear prisoners relate such betrayals over the ranges and to each other.
9

10 "9) Special treatment. Treat those who are willing to collaborate, in far more 11 lenient ways than those who are not.

13 "10) [Punishment]: Punish those who show uncooperative attitudes toward the 14 programming. Do it openly and embarrassingly (i.e., show force, use combative response 15 teams in full uniform to instill fear and to encourage prisoners to be receptive of 16 programs, etc.).

18 "11) Mail. Systematic withholding of mail. This becomes very important in 19 the process of breaking the prisoner down. If you can not legitimately bar the mail, then 20 use the non-delivery stamp to return to sender, or make the prisoner appeal the 21 contraband mail. By the time he receives the mail, emotional stress will already have 22 developed. If this happens often enough, he will become discouraged about writing and 23 receiving mail, due to all the trouble he will go through. Also, there may come times 24 when destroying the mail altogether will prove effective for those prisoners who seem to 25 be less responsive to the less extreme methods. It also will suffice to demonstrate in front 26 of a prisoner that you are in total control and that if he does not act according to your 27 wishes, he will never hear or receive outside communications. This can be displayed by 28 taking mail that has compiled to this prisoner and showing it to him. Then, once he 29 apologizes or submits, etc., the mail is his. This will be effective, because he will relate 30 this to other prisoners and the fear will be developed throughout the institution.
31

32 "12) Contact: Preventing contact with anyone, whether non-sympathetic or in 33 agreement with the method of programming and the treatment/regime of the prisoner.
34 This includes but is not limited to family, wives, kids, and even prison staff. When 35 necessary, false behavior reports will be necessary to keep a prisoner at the point of 36 breaking, by keeping him from receiving a family phone call or visit that might give him 37 esteem and high spirits. This shall extend to his Attorney visits as well. They can 38 destroy weeks of programming.
39

40 "13) Disenfranchisement. The disorganization of group standards, principles, 41 ethics, and creeds. This shall be done by showing them that the doctrines of beliefs they 42 embrace are not effective, and are false. Do this by finding dissenting materials, or if 43 necessary, create the materials. It is in the nature of all human beings to hold faith and 44 belief in something. However, once that element no longer protects, nourishes our needs, 45 desires, and instead now inflicts pain, the person will become weak and give way with 46 their beliefs or faith. Then you can replace them with your own system of beliefs and

1 faiths, doctrines, creeds, etc. This was most effective during slavery. I encourage you to 2 go study the slave methods, as they will be valuable in this programming, especially 3 among blacks. We have found in governmental studies that the blacks in America still 4 maintain psychological programming from slavery very much active. Why do you think 5 they are so easy to manage, and please—e.g., [look at] the dysfunctional families. Thus,
 6 your black prisoners will be receptive of the programming.

 8 "14) Abandonment: Building a group conviction among the prisoners that they 9 have been abandoned by all and totally isolated from their social order. (Note: many of 10 these items will overlap or be reiterated as some of the same methods. Nevertheless, it is 11 of great importance that you reinforce the program to be most effective.)

12
 13 "15) Undermine: Undermine all emotional supports.

14
 15 "16) Obstruction: Preventing prisoners from writing home or to friends in the 16 community regarding the conditions of their confinement.

17
 18 "17) Restrictions: Making available and permitting access to only those 19 publications and books, music, and TV programs that contain materials which are either 20 in conformity, neutral to, or supporting of, the desired new attitude. One element of 21 dissent can cause hope to spring up.

 23 "18) Maze effect: Placing the prisoner into new and ambiguous situations for 24 which the standards are kept deliberately unclear and then putting pressure on him to 25 conform to what is desired in order to win favor and a reprieve from the pressure.

26
 27 "19) Weakening the spirit: Place the prisoner whose will power has been 28 severely weakened or eroded into a living situation or complex with several others who 29 are more advanced in their thought programming reform, whose job it is to further the 30 undermining of the other prisoners' emotional supports. Make all of them hate him and 31 him hate them.

32
 33 "20) Invalidation: Use techniques of character invalidation, i.e., humiliations, 34 revilements, and shouting, to induce feelings of guilt, fear, and create suggestibility.
 35 Couple these with sleeplessness, an exacting prison regime and periodic interrogation 36 interviews for allegations ranging from suicide, gang activities, and unsolved crimes like 37 murder. Continue to feed the prisoner that you know they did this or that. Continue to 38 use past conduct on the files to instill guilt and shame. Never let him forget that which he 39 has done. Use the names of victims of crimes to weaken him in the early hours of the 40 night. Throw water on him and make him sleep wet in the cold to build discomfort. Use 41 titles unpleasant to him, like "offender," "defendant," "ward of the state," "girls," 42 "bitches," "fags," "homos," "nigger," etc.

43 44 "21) Insincerity: Meet all insincere attempts to comply, with the pressures of 45 violence, and denial of food and mail.

1 "22) Consistency: Repetitiously point out to the prisoner, if possible by both
 2 staff and prisoners, where he has in the past or the present not lived up to his own 3 standards, values, faiths, or creeds.

 5 "23) Contention: Turn all natural religious or gang leaders against their second 6 in command or trusted members.

 8 "24) Power struggle: Create power struggles between members of religious sects 9 or gangs, to weaken their structures and stability.

10
 11 "25) Legitimacy: Those in gangs who are legitimately trying to change or be part 12 of the community are to be rejected. This will discourage others from leaving the fold 13 [and joining the gangs], and continue the justification to confine and discipline those 14 members who are accessible. (Note: when a prisoner is labeled as a gang member or 15 leader, the public will care less about his treatment in prison. So use that to your 16 advantage.)

 18 "26) Rewards: Reward submission and subservience to the attitudes 19 encompassing the programming objectives with a lifting of the pressure and with 20 acceptance as a human being.

21
 22 "27) Support: Provide social and emotional supports which reinforce the new 23 attitudes.

 25 "Now, unknown to yourself, you have not only become 'programmers', but the 26 programming which you will be using was just applied to you. If you recall, or when you 27 go over your notes, you will notice the repetition of certain methods. This is by design, 28 to instill in you the acceptance, rationalization, and de-humanization of those you will be 29 programming.

30
 31 "Thank you very much. I will be available for questions."

CHAPTER 2

"After the Supermax doors opened"

The following is a personal account of the inner workings of the state's pride and cruel trick on humanity, that was spearheaded by the governor.

The public's opinion has been but a beacon of light to guide, and too often to mislead. However, it has led not only humanity, but in some cases the government and her trust of empowerment, to the agencies that are created.

The Supermax prison, as the name keynotes, is a place of the highest and most extreme deprivation of human rights in the State of Wisconsin. It is not only claimed, but it is the irresistible truth, that SMCI (Supermax Correctional Institution) was created and conceived with the sole purpose, so proudly claimed by the governor, to inflict that pain back on the "criminal defendant or offender" that the offender has allegedly inflicted on society. I need not point out that this is an evil purpose or motive behind the building and running of the nation's now most oppressive prison and exaggerated security concern. Indeed, it is the reason there are claims now in the intermediate and Federal court, [that have] got the governor calling on his friends to bail him out, as he stated just recently, "I'm from Elroy," [it does not make sense, can you explain how saying I'm from Elroy means he is calling on his friends?] It is obvious, he is not only "get trippin'," but he is calling upon all of his comrades from "Elroy" to assist and undermine the litigation.

In a nutshell, [the governor wants] to cover up the crimes that on a daily basis go on in this $60 million dollar prison that he built in order to, as he called it, house the "toughest of the tough." Or [was it built] in order to create jobs for this rural community to whom he promised to bring jobs--of course, in exchange for votes [and because they have a shared] heritage and background. Not to mention, [was it built] so he could claim a decrease in the unemployment rate, because he would be creating jobs for poor whites, and locking up poor unemployed blacks, Latinos, and indigenous people. We see not only an opportunity to gain monetarily [through a cover-up], but the need and justification to suppress any unfavorable publicity, [which could bring public opinion to want] the discontinuation of this failed experiment.

This attitude encouraged by the governor is what created the present abusive and oppressive environment. While the SMCI officials claim to have the public interest at heart, most if not all of the alleged security concerns (for example, the inspection or random inspection of mail) are employed to secure the jobs of these officials who cut the corners and violate the law. The suppression of [communication with] prison advocacy groups outside the prison and the black listing of prisoners' mail to and from these agencies, serves no legitimate penal objective or rational security measure, let alone a justifiable concern.

However, one can concede, or concur, that there exists a real concern. And that concern is that those officials misbehaving will lose their jobs. We shall not coast over the fact that to many of these guards, these jobs hold high aspirations and career advancements, and [financial support] for those who have dependents. Which places the need and greed right at the front door. Speaking of the front door! It is claimed that before SMCI opened the front doors, the bad and oppressive image followed here from the [evil conceptions] of the mind that [gave birth to] the idea to build it.

Those involved and those who had investments made haste in trying to dismiss and dispel public [concern]. So, once the first cargo of human beings or bonded slaves arrived, the security concern arose at once when the complaints began to be filed about the inadequate and inhumane environment. But it was not the security concern of a legitimate public interest or penal objective. No, the concern was in creating and maintaining job security. Why the concern? Because, as previously mentioned and as will be stated later on, the inhuman image put all those gaining monetarily on "stand and point"--[on alert]. When the first cargo of prisoners came to SMCI, the officials in Madison as well as at the prison knew beforehand that the prison was not in operative [condition yet]. But due to the loss of money from not being open, to public grandiosity, and to the pressure on the governor from those he had promised jobs, SMCI opened its insufficient doors to receive prisoners. And as the prisoners began to file complaints to the public and to the court system, SMCI's response in this moment of crisis was total censorship of all outgoing mail, legal and otherwise. This was so that they could bring damage control in to clean up, where they had failed to do it correctly [in the first place]. From that moment on, SMCI officials and the "Borg"-like staff (so-called intelligence collectors and clean-up department [ICI system]) has responded to every legitimate and even trivial concern with oppressive measures. These measures, as they are employed to this [writer], and to many more similarly situated, shall be [described] herein as follows:

SMCI structured team system in the unofficial regime

Although SMCI is disguised as a penal institution, the illegal practices and conduct of the officials of covering up and concealing human rights and civil rights violations, reveals its true nature, or at least turns it into nothing short of a criminal enterprise. All of this is done in the name of securing and maintaining their jobs, which means to keep SMCI operating and open by all means necessary and at all costs. The common mind-set used to rationalize this illegal conduct was to say over and over again to oneself, and the prisoner, "I'm only doing my job." Thus, in the name of the job, they committed serious deprivations and went along with criminal conduct. Imagine a Nazi war criminal telling a Jewish tribunal, "I was only doing my job as a soldier."

The SMCI echelon is as follows, based upon what I have been able to ascertain by pure observation and by conversing with unnamed staff:

The unofficial regime echelon is divided up into a "Team System," or just teams. There are four teams operating at all times, on all shifts in the prison. The team system is formulated to respond to any crisis that arises out of unofficial conduct by the staff, not by prisoners (i.e., conduct which is not authorized by statutes or consistent with the law or legally permissible by the laws and constitutions, etc.). The response is meant to keep the crisis from spilling out of the prison into the courts, to prison advocacy groups,

1 families and others that would respond to the violations or other unacceptable conduct,
2 with influence on public opinion that would be unfavorable to SMCI. [I rearranged the 3 statement above to make it more readable, so make sure the meaning is correct]

5 The "Primary Team" consists of Warden Gerald Berge, Deputy Warden Peter
6 Huibeegtse, Security Director Boughton, Program Director Vicki Sharpe and her husband
7 unit manager, Linda Hot Stuff [*name inserted from your notes], unit manager, Hompe, 8 etc., and unnamed.

10 The "Secondary Team" consists of captains and lieutenants who are selectively 11 picked, such as the likes of Captain Reed Richardson, Capt. or Lt. Biggar, Grendin, etc.

12
13 The "Third Team," called "field supports," consists of selected sergeants, such as 14 the likes of Sgt. Mason, Sgt. Bowdy, Sgt. Hoffman, Sgt. Kussenrul, Sgt. Snodgrass, and 15 Sgt. Kraekey. Equally important, with their own special department, are Sgt. Wetter, Sgt 16 Bast, and Sgt. Loskot, who maintains the tight censorship of mail, and whose duty it is to 17 make sure nothing damaging leaves the institution if possible.

19 The "Fourth Team," called "frontliners," "front line officers" or "contact staff," 20 consists of C.O.'s mostly selected, but is not limited to those. It depends on the action to 21 be carried out, which will decide which C.O. will be employed to carry it out.

23 Now, the "Primary Team" will create an environment, disturbance, or situation by 24 which they will send certain contact staff in to create chaos among prisoners on certain 25 ranges or wings by various acts explained throughout this report. These are the so-called 26 "shock tests," which the primary team will, by unofficial policy and procedures, send the 27 contact staff to perform. For example, Ms. Hot Stuff has been clocked [what does 28 "clocked" mean? Does it mean "caught" or "observed?"] creating policies and rules on 29 her office computer, frequently. She has been clocked making policies while standing at 30 prisoner's doors with the "shock compressors," and when asked to see the policy or rule 31 she is enforcing and claiming the prisoner has violated, her reply is, "I'm going to make it 32 up right now." Then off to her office she will go, to type up an internal policy and rule 33 [for the] emergency. Flyboy has been present several times while such [policy-making] 34 has taken place.

35
36 To offer one case in point, contact staff (the Fourth Team) will be instructed by 37 the Primary Team or a member of this team, to go into the room and take all of a 38 prisoner's legal material that is [involved] in a pending court date, being fully aware of 39 this. The primary will instruct them (contact staff) verbatim on exactly how to respond 40 when the prisoner objects, reacts, or responds to the "shock." The contact staff objective 41 is to go in, take, and come out, sometimes with force and sometimes not. If questioned, 42 their response is, "I'm only doing my job," or "You have to talk to the unit manager." If 43 the prisoner is not content with the shock test just employed upon him, the Third Team is 44 brought in to give support to the contact staff. The same theme is reiterated. However, if 45 the selected members of the Secondary Team are called in, a show of force and violence 46 is deemed to follow after the prisoner has been provoked. This team is considered the "Shock Compressors" (supra with Linda Hot Stuff), which is the unofficial title.

However, when they are forced to write up paperwork on these provoked attacks, in the event that the Shock Compressors hurt some one and the matter of illegal acts is likely to be investigated, they call this an extraction gang or team. Notice the composition of this word, i.e., "extra-action"

Note: In the year or so since SMCI has been open, the Shock Compressors or cell extractions that have taken place in this small length of time, are more than for all Wisconsin prisons together for the past two year period. If they record them, the record shall reflect, or their logs, that in the year 2000 alone, (there was a cell extraction) almost every day, and for the days of absence, three to four in another day make up the loss.

Now, this Shock Compressor team will have beaten up prisoners for merely passively disobeying a staff ego [order?], or for calling a staff by their name. Or, especially when there is a certain female staff who a male staff likes, the latter will look for the minutest reason to call on a Shock Compressor.

Most of the conduct consists of the Primary Team keeping the contact staff in direct confrontation situations with the prisoners by changing policies and making new rules, sometimes every week. Most are never in printed form. For example, see the Alpha rule books from the time period of April, 2000, to the present, or from the initial opening of SMCI to the present. June 15th, Revised, June 28th, Revised, July 6th, Revised, and recently, July 13th, Revised. As well, see the new and old Alpha canteen list and purchase form. This process of making procedures and rules so ambiguous, makes even seasoned staff who have been part of the DOC for five to ten years, find themselves confronted with avoidable dilemmas and confrontations.

The Primary Team, in creating pandemonium, use the following tactics by way of the contact team. Create ambiguous memos and rules to circumvent the laws, regulations, and administrative codes. These memos, created on internal computers, are given out selectively, if necessary, or they use the yellow notation stickers. They then have the contact staff remove or steal them back from the prisoners so there is no record, or just to harass the prisoners. Further, they create false memos and only serve them to selected prisoners to claim new restrictions. After they set him off, they go in and retrieve it or remove it off his door, or confiscate it upon him attempting to mail it out.

Further, all prison advocacy groups are now banned and black-listed. There is no existing list (or so I'm told), so staff or the Primary and Secondary Team ban them as convenient for them. The only exceptional mail received by these groups is those that can be traced back to staff, if they destroyed and didn't deliver it [what do you mean by this? Please explain]. Other than that, all mail to and from [these groups] is destroyed without notice or any form of pre- or post-remedy, contrary to the administration's own policy.

A similar practice occurs with legal mail going to and from the court. Mostly, there is intentional delaying of mail to miss dates and time lines. Also, there is sending

1 of requested certified mail through the regular mail, and opening of legal mail outside of 2 the presence of the prisoner.

3

4 This [four team] echelon was formed for no other purpose but to commit
5 unofficial acts and conceal them.

The Dalai Lama teaches us that: "Genuine compassion is based on a clear acceptance or recognition that others, like oneself, want or desire and shall have the right to overcome pain, suffering, and torture. On that basis, one develops . . . concern about the welfare of others, irrespective of one's attitude to oneself. That is compassion." From the Power of Compassion. [is that a book?]

Dear Reader! Prisoners who are locked down and isolated for almost 24 hours a day, sometimes for years on end, in tiny, damp, smelly cells, with almost nothing constructive or otherwise to do, will reach out for help. Most of the time [they will reach] out to courts before they will to their immediate staff, even before they reach out to some family members, or to a psychologist. Some may just follow the easy route and strike out any way they can. It's only logical that guards will retaliate.

Prisoners who complain about the conditions of their confinement do not generally get much sympathy from society, but sympathy is not the issue here. From society's long-term perspective, there are sound reasons for prohibiting cruel and unusual punishment. People who are abused and treated with violence are those most likely to treat others abusively and violently.

Under the SMCI system, many prisoners will soon be on the streets. Confining people under conditions of extreme violence, fear, and hostility, and [then] releasing them into society, is the equivalent of throwing a ticking time bomb into a crowd. This is exactly what Gov. Tommy Elroy and others are trying to create. The explosion will set off a blast that creates the precise effects they want: Enactment of new racist laws and crime bills. Abridgments of constitutional rights that will be selectively applied and enforced. Building of new prisons to imprison the poor Blacks and Latinos. Hiring the poor whites to serve as guards, or modern-day slave overseers.

The question that now must be answered is, do the prisoners in SMCI have a "Magna Carta"? If not, then there is no force and meaning in language, and the words of solemn treaties, such as civil and constitutional rights for prisoners, are an idle breath, which prisoners may [regard as little as they do] the passing wind. Let the noble Reader reflect and recollect, that these treaties [should be held as such], and that there is a saying among nations, as among women and men, a Golden Rule: "Let us do to them, as we wish and [would] have done to us."

As this reader, and as penologists and others in this field across the nation know, this exaggerated security concern is in its very essence oppressive in nature. While the false prophets (politicians, governor, etc.) are grand at such proclamations, however, moor (truth) reveals to us that these oppressive measures do more to create security concerns than to remove them. The highest court and lower courts in the State of Wisconsin have illuminated these very facts to those zealots trying to appeal to the public with rage against crime, with ill gain in mind, and with the demagoguery of Shaitan.

2 The facts of the matter make it incumbent upon us to see through the illusions
3 they try to make out of reality. In Eighth Amendment cases, the Supreme Court 4 decisions have all set wisdom [in front of] the face of the prudent seeker [of wisdom].
5 [The Court has found] "that when one is controlling a prison of such intrusions [do you
6 mean "intrusiveness"? doesn't make sense], the environment there is ripe for the creation
7 of the exact "caged" behavior that its existence is supposed to cure." To intentionally 8 [bring into being] such behavior and environment is, and very well ought to be, a crime.
9 But even more, if our present world society has truly matured in her humanity, her 10 response to such public official misconduct is:

The Caged Dog Effect

By P.P.O.W., Prince Atum-Ra Uhuru
A.K.A. Norman C. Green, II
Boscobel Supermax, 12-2-Y2

Everybody born in the stolen land (America), I'm sure, has grown up in a community where there was one dog whom everyone feared that, if it ever got loose, it would bite someone.

The interesting thing is that in spite of this fear, almost every kid in the community that comes past this dog "will" and does agitate it, and it will agitate them.
Even some teenagers and grown people get in on what would appear to be "meaningless fun." Every day, every week, this is done, every month. After a while, it becomes so ingrained; that this relationship (between them and the dog) [becomes] one of "love and hate." The kids take their anger out on him by hitting him with big rocks, making him run and cut his nose and mouth on the gate. The dog knows every one of them by sight, smell, and sound—soon, maybe, even taste?

Another interesting thing is, both the people and the dog fear each other, which very well contributes to the dysfunctional relationship. More so, they both bravely demonstrate this fear under the false pretense of courage. They both know that "the gate" will actually prevent either one of them from proving just how brave they are.

So, they continue on with this daily ritual that makes both of them look very silly.
Two animals that have allegedly been domesticated, yet very much beasts, challenging each other to see who is "king of the jungle."

If we could actually hear this dog's thoughts, feelings, and what its intentions are if it ever gets loose, this article would be much more interesting and terror-filled. What is clear, however, is that if this dog gets loose, he knows its worst and most hated agitators.
Like most animals, they have an almost perfect memory when it revolves around threatening situations. There's no doubt that this dog will bite someone and viciously hurt them.

Now, as experience has shown, there are a few exceptions where this dog got out and had the opportunity to strike, even on these kids, but actually just scared them rather than biting them. But, every dog is not the same. There is, and will be, that one dog that will exactly [take] his revenge. On that day, the community will never have visited such somberness.

All the kids now crying and scared, the community now demands that the dog be put to sleep. Still more, very few ever admonished the little kids from messing with the dog. Now the fun is over, everyone wants to blame the dog, when it could very well have been prevented, had these same people admonished these kids and made peace with this now demonized dog.

2 Every person in America has seen this done, or done so themselves. The Caged
3 Dog.

5 Now, I have one question before the conclusion of this article. Which animal
6 could be even more dangerous when once agitated with this same Caged Dog Effect?
7 When constantly being harassed and daily abused? "A Human being."

8
9 This is what I see happening every day at the Governor's Supermax prison.
10 Prisoners more and more are becoming that "crazed, enraged dog." What's more, this 11 Caged Dog Effect is magnified in human beings. Where their nature is not as instinctive 12 as the dog's is, they have a capacity to process information faster and with greater 13 emotional effect. The environment alone causes unknown damage, and mental damage 14 that can never be measured. This is because humans can articulate these pains to a 15 greater degree. While we will never know if the dog has these same or similar emotions, 16 zoologists have recorded animals committing suicide in an effort to free themselves from 17 bondage. This is evidence that humans are not the only animals that process 18 environmental information like this.

19 20 Within the Supermax, the Caged Dog Effect is creating mad dogs. Unlike the real 21 dog who got loose by accident, these humans turned mad dogs will be released on the 22 community like an owner sending a pack out to kill.

24 Now, we must emphasize that the appropriate and proper thing to do is not to put 25 these young men to sleep or continue engagement, as the unwise and ill-informed 26 community did in the dog pathos. No, the prudent thing to do here is to get involved and 27 prevent these people from being turned into monsters.

28
29 This [(turning these people into monsters)] is one of the primary objectives of the 30 Supermax. Its resident psyche, Dr. Snapple, supervises this pilot program. If the 31 objective, or goal, is carried out, these mad dogs leaving here into society will create 32 pandemonium, so that the Governor will feel, and will be needed to act as if, he is solving
33 society's ills, thus creating new laws and jobs (prisons) for economically unstable, poor 34 rural communities.

35
36 This is part of the Governor's solution to the unemployment problem. Look 37 closely. Lock poor urban inner-city people up, who are jobless, and give the poor jobless 38 rural people jobs guarding the now-imprisoned poor inner-city urban people. If one 39 combs through the statistics, one will see an actual decrease in unemployment, which is 40 the claim to fame of the Governor. But what is transparent to the poor urban people and 41 those in prison, is that the statistics are traded one for the other. The Governor's master 42 plot, or plan, is to lock the Blacks and Latinos up. They are expendable. Instead of 43 creating jobs for them, which would cost the state less money, he creates prison cells for 44 them. Because he goes against all wisdom and logic in his solution, this shows the 45 underlying racism in this system. Why else would he care so little!
46

1 The issue is that this Caged Dog Effect will further create the crisis situation the 2 Governor wants, (in order to) culturally condition the people to accept this disguised
3 racist's unemployment and population control [solutions]. If any investigation were to be 4 initiated at the Supermax, they would find that, out of the 330 prisoners recently housed 5 there and receiving this Caged Dog Effect, at least 20 of them are being released into the 6 Black and Latino communities within a 12 to 16 month period. And these prisoners, at 7 least ten of them, are constantly mistreated and [are] intentionally [created with] hate
8 being built inside of them, so they can be like that dog who one day got loose. Just like 9 the dog, they all may not get out and "bite." However, all it requires to bring the lynch
10 mob out to kill, is the biting of one misguided and vengeful dog. Or, in this case, 11 Supermax prisoner.

13 Dr. Snapple profiles these prisoners and instructs the staff how to effectively 14 create the necessary environment to create this caged dog to be released as the agent of 15 the Governor's racist population and unemployment program. This Caged Dog Effect is 16 well known throughout the scientific community, especially in the psychology field.

17
18 Over three decades ago, Dr. Phillip J. Zimbardo proved how the Caged Dog
19 Effect created macabre [behavior] in citizens/students who volunteered to play both 20 guards and prisoners in a prison experiment. The results were that the fake guards, who 21 once were meek, compassionate people, became abusive thugs with state-sanctioned 22 authority. The student fake prisoners became inferior, nothing people, many of whom 23 wanted to commit suicide. And it was only a fake situation. Imagine this happening 24 every day, without calling it quits.

26 Around this same time, the prisons in this country were being told by both 27 professional psychologists and judges that these environments create destructive people, 28 and that the [environments] were in their very nature unconstitutional, per the Eighth 29 Amendment. [These environments were deemed] cruel and unusual punishment and 30 inhumane by the United Nations Human Rights Bill.

31
32 The irony is, these same [people] now get tough on crime, and prison politicians 33 are, mostly, the same so-called liberals who fought hard against these same kinds of 34 conditions. These people, and they are many, have sold out, have become the same thing 35 they once despised, "ha!ots for money and power." And Dr. Snapple is no exception.
