

The Ultimate Blasphemy

I would like to congratulate the Christians of this modern era. You have all officially joined the ranks of history in the same way as the people who organized the infamous tortures of the Inquisition and the witch hunts. Also in the same way you are claiming that your actions are in the name of God Almighty.

You should all be ashamed of yourselves. Christian means to be Christ like, is this what you believe Jesus would truly want? We are not suppose to judge only God has that right. Do you all truly believe that you have the right to steal God's power? The last being to do that was an angel named Lucifer. You people know the bible better than I do - judge not - remove your beam - cast the first stone and most important "love each other as I have loved you." Are these just words to you?

Don't worry about my feelings or how history sees you. However, don't be surprised if on judgement day Jesus says, "Get thee from me, for I do not know you." Remember this, God knows what is in our hearts, we can not hide anything. We are all children of God, all of us, and only he has the right and the burden to judge us. Don't over step your bounds, worry about getting your own heart and life in order, leave the rest to God.
