This was supposed to be forever You an I holding hands walking into the sunset saying to each other what's next cause together we could've conquered (world hunger) through truly letting go and letting go, and letting the Lord guide our steps, an allowing friction to happen an watch the dominoe effect but love like all things changed, I feel ya'h

I was told that what we shared was rare an nothing would dare come between us was solid like granite but you took for granted a pure love, that's why I panic from just thought of you, so much deception your word's used like weapon had me questioning am I loo'seing my mind or out of touch with reality, ~~don't~~ lie to me, cry with me, no instead you're laughin at me, but "I feel ya'h
