

I'm stuck with a dilemma! where I see a lot of people come and visit these guys in here and its not derived from delugy. after awhile you see how nice and down to earth they are and you cant help but care and it eats at me knowing if only they knew the guys and things they do and knowing they are playing with peoples lives and happiness using them for their own ill purposes like its a game they put on this big facade of the person they would like them to be but on the inside they are the complete opposite lying to all partaking in drugs still while in prison drinking fermented poison, taking pills on a daily basis and indulging in homosexuality they have beautiful girls coming to see them only to go back into the prison wearing the tails of homosexuals

It gets to me because I dont feel like its right to play with the emotions of others stringing them along for who knows how long

Is it even my business? If I take it upon myself to tell them and they confront them letting them know I was the one to give them up then I'm labeled a switch and apt to defending myself creating into a fight in which I lose my status, my job and possibly a set off ruining my eligibility for my Truck Driving License

It just plays on my conscious because I know and it feels as though I am deceiving them one in particular even has the homosexuals name he is in love with Tattoo on his wrist hidden under his Arm band! and he fronts as though he's madly in love

I'm not writing this out of any insensitivity either who knows in my own way I'm helping someone else be aware of who they encounter

So ladies remember some of the pretty boys inside here "could" be looking Fly Not only for you you deserve better and I know there's no way for you to really know but don't give up hope because someone will be true to heart and lay it all out for you to know the true man that he "really" is, you just have to look in front of your eyes and Not In your heart only.

Because there are good men inside these walls that would love nothing more then a chance

I colored a little something to brighten yalls day out there I know I havent done much lately I guess because sometimes i feel no one really needs much but who really knows for certain

I can feel a little better by helping and making a effort at making someones Day better or by knowing good men do exist

