

Tamie,

7Kh8

16? God, you made me feel old. Haha! Anyways, that Jesus joke, heard it all my life, so you're cool with me.

Know that I appreciate your comments. I love receiving comments from young people the most. Because keep in mind that I was just a year older than you when I first got locked up. So if through my poetry I can influence you to do something positive in your life that's all I can really ask for.

Seriously! print my letter and hang it on your wall? That's a beautiful compliment. I wasn't expecting that. Thanks. About the writing, truth is you can write like, if not better than me. But you have to be dedicated because it takes a lot of practice. Now I can write quickly and not mess up as much. However when I started back in the day, I messed up a whole bunch. I mean I was terrible. But perseverance pays off, so practice.

I wrote down your name step by step so you can start with that. Hope it helps.

Much Respect, Jesus A.

Jamie

J J J

J Ja

Ja

Jam

Jam

Jam

Jamie

Start with these first: a m i e

Here's a simpler J. Start like this

(then bring the line down) then go up J Start with your name first. Then we'll move on. Also try practicing the lower case letters first to build a little rhythm.

Don't be discouraged if it looks ugly at first. Remember that a diamond starts out as carbon.

Take care, be good. With respect,
Jesus A.