

The Prison System Wants You!

Rural Losers Need
the Jobs

<http://betweenthebars.org/blogs/540/>

Truth hurts, those living a comfortable lie.

Here in Wisconsin's supermax, the staff are all rural losers, unable to make it working at even McDonald's. They're slow, lazy, dull, overweight and some are senior citizens. Without this job they'd be on welfare, cooking meth or growing pot for a living. There's no other job they could do - turning keys, lying about prisoners and making sure we're not saving condiments off our meal trays takes no skill.

But they're not as blameworthy for overincarceration of humans as are:

Politicians, who're paid by guards' unions to pass laws that keep prisons full and as oppressive as possible, and,

Voters, who elect those politicians, and

Lawyers, who make a living scavenging off of broken people who break laws, in full knowledge that prison will simply break those broken people further, but playing along faithfully might let them springboard to being a judge, or a politician.

Christianity and The Bible are often used to justify prisons' cruel, senseless degradation of its captives and society, even though The Bible says that Jesus came to heal the sick not break the broken. Satan means "The Accuser" - he prosecuted people, like Job, according to the Bible.

Prisoners who know this despise the system.

Others know this, but profit from it, so defend it.

We've denied colored pens & pencils, so to color the drawing I put colored sections of newspaper ads over sections & scribbled on the back of the paper with a dead pen. Anyone may republish this, so long as the URLs for my blog are displayed under it.