Hello Britt, I sincerely want to thank you for your comments. God wants us to trust in him for everything we need in our lives so that he can be glorified in what he does for us. Through providing everything for us those who are still lost begin to marvel at our lives and then get drawn into his love. I'm so glad this blog touched you and encourage you to turn over every aspect of your life to the Father. In doing that you prove your faith and God will move miraculously in your life. Please continue to read my blog, I try to send in something every month. I look forward to your feedback, every comment is a wonderful blessing to me. God bless you and keep you all of your days.
