- WATER METERS TO BE INSTALLED / CANCEROUS TUMORS LEFT IN

The Brain Trust here at NorfolkWorld/WallyWorld has decided that they will install "water monitoring meters" in the individual cellblocks to ascertain which ones may be "wasting water"??? This truly perplexes us here at Free Speech Central as they have Johnny Copjeffer watering flowers each day in front of Unit 2-1, and Peter Bootpolisher watering the basepaths of the prisoner softball field each day. You can make this shit up! Now you have men with Hep C they refuse to treat, guys with shingles living right in the units, and men with tumors they facility ignored for so long that they have months to live. One particular con, R.S., had a pea sized "mass" which was ignored for almost two years, they kept assuring him he was going out to a "specialist", but the only specialist he saw was one that specializes in telling deadly lies. When he finally was sent out the "mass" now became a finger sized cancerous tumor and he has been told he has about 9 months to a year to live. This was treatable and this man's life could have been saved, but no at Wally-World they worry more about "wasting water" than they do a man's life. The post notices to staff: ATTENTION: DO NOT DRINK THE WATER!!, and then give them bottled water. When the prisoners become ill and the brown water is to blame they state, "There is nothing wrong with the water.", and no one asks, "Then why do you instruct your employees not to drink it?" There are murderers in prison and many of those murderers where the tarnished DOC badge. Shame on you. How about you monitor the medical care as closely as you monitor the water usage? Too much to ask? Nuff said...

- GREAT MEETING WITH SENATOR BROWNSBERGER ORGANIZED BY PRISONERS

On Tuesday, September 20, 2016, Senator William N. Brownsberger attended the Lifers' Group, Inc. meeting here at WallyWorld. Senator Brownsberger afforded the crown a power presentation and then took questions and offered forthcoming answers. The Senator then met with the Board of Directors of the Lifers' Group, Inc., and a few invited guest. There was only one uninvited guest and that was the fully tarnished badge wearing Medusa of Corrections, Shell-Shocked Sherry, who took notes as the informed prisoners of NorfolkWorld told the Senator about abuses and ideas for real and meaningful reform. The senator was very receptive to the ideas of the group and will be assisting with getting us more information in the next legislative session. He also heard the Phase III Project plan where informed prisoners will be brought into the State House to testify before the General Court on measures planned for criminal justice reform. This will happen and Free Speech Central is at the heart of this project! All in all it was a great meeting and the senator gave the group his word he would return in the spring. The work to involve the voice of the informed prisoner in the process rages on!!!

More To Come...
