

#246

Cartoon: Roger from American Dad in Drag created 29 Jan. '17

All due respect to Seth McFarland, although he needs a team for what I do all on my own!!

So I drew this for someone I thought was my best friend. She was, like so many women do, trippin' about her body, even though I repeatedly told her that she was being too hard on herself.

Thing is, I've never met an adult man who gives a fuck about boob size or if a woman's eyebrows are waxed to look like a cholita's. Boys care about that shit, like my associates did when I was 15-16! Yeah, Donald Trump cares about that too, but he's a boy in a 70-year-old man's body.

It's a turn off to hear women trippin' over their bodies! But maybe I'm just ultra practical: you got a vagina? That'll make you an automatic 5 in my book. Nice eyes - an 8. Nice lips & eyes - boom, you're a 10... if your personality is good.

I've met some women who were built like Barbie, and I wouldn't even look at them cause their personalities were so rank! And I'm serious! If I wanted an empty woman, I'd've bought a blow-up doll.

I've met women who are not physically attractive, in any way, yet, somehow, they developed great personalities & got a handsome man wrapped around their fingers. Don't make sense to me, unless the man was wise enough to realize that skin wrinkles, tits sag, hair grays, but a personality doesn't have too. I'm about at that point too - all I give a fuck about is a good personality.

Anyway, this drawing & these thoughts are for any women eating their hearts out over how they think their looks are flawed: men ain't tripping over such details.

Nate Lindell #303724
WSPF
P.O. Box 9900
Boscobel, WI
53005-0901