

NORFOLK CHRONICLES

$89,703.92

The Reese the-Fleece saga continues, predictably, somewhat. It appears that Reese da Fleece took home $89,703.92 during 2016 as bridges across this Commonwealth crumbled and people could not afford to buy milk. Concerning the FM antenna installation and Fleece's "war" with the deputy It was reported that Fleece finally installed the FM antenna, and did so poorly- twice. Of course Fleece ordered the wrong antenna(on purpose) which did not work(surprise), and this had to be planned! No one could be that stupid. The kicker is that it still needs work, maybe 15 minutes. A job not completed is neither a failure or a success. The folks in 2-3 could learn these quirky sayings, IF THEIR ANTENNA WAS WORKING AND THEY WERE ABLE TO LISTEN TO NPR. Well in the land of it-never-ends... while the inmate worker was doing all the work, Fleece stopped by the job and was seen going through the refrigerator stealing milks from diabetics' snacks. Even that was not enough- Fleece's end game was, when he had to install the correct antenna, to steal the remaining milks from the diabetics, saying "screw em."

This will teach the administration to deny Fleece overtime. His response seems to be to do everything twice, and real slow. But it would appear that $89,703.92 which includes overtime is not a bad hit for his efforts...and the antenna is not working as it should... 15-20 minutes more bob, lets go.

So here is the $89,703.92 dollar question:

Q. What is worse than the guy who steals $89,703.92, and milks from diabetics?

A. NOTHING !

With a guy like Fleece it is worth peeling back some layers of his onions. It is also being reported that Fleece is a saboteur who has been deliberately telling the treasurer to deny certain inmates' purchase orders for parts. A recent order for $900.00 was denied outright. Mostly because Fleece added a number of personal items to the order, either for his use, or so the order would be denied. Other orders have gone missing. And past orders have shown up with 'missing' parts including speakers, tv parts, superglue, am/fm testing/broadcasting radio(s), etcetera. Apparently Fleece has been throwing these parts away as well as selling them on E-Bay. But do not take anyone's word for it- check past invoices against inventories of what has been ordered. Where is the shit going????

You would think that a guy earning just short of 90,000 clams wouldn't need to steal milk, TV Parts, test radios, head phones, etcetera. What's next? Candybars, sunglasses??

When confronted about these lost orders, denied orders, lost parts- Fleece just shrugs saying "go to Happy Hour(staff access hour)" or "go tell the deputy, I don't give a fuck." Well Mr.

Fleece these orders amount to roughly $8,000, and about $4,000 in TV parts are missing; adding to your 89,703.92 for a grand total of $93,703.92(not including the milk)."
