Trust off the person you knew as Calico is no more and will never be again. Because one can never fully change ones self without fully changing all of ones self. Trust me I know because I have done it. But if you wish to call me Calico so be it. But I would rather you call me Joe..... But as for what you asked me about the word love. Will Trust let me say that the word love means alot of different things to alot of different people. But you Poodle would like to know what love means to me..... Will at one time I would have told you a 1,000 different things that would have sounded good. But would have been for all the wrong things. Like you say for a place to stay when I get out or alot of other things. But now my understanding has changed. And I dont know if you can call it the meaning of love or not. But I think loving some one is some one you want to be with all the time just doing nothing at all but holding each-other. Just talking about anything and every thing. And your always there for each-other no matter what. And you dont want to have sex with any one else. And you dont want to do any-thing to hurt them. And if that ant love will I dont know. And dont care because thats what I want. Not Conveinents. Because I dont want to just pick up with some one I was with befor. Because one there really wouldnt be any trust between use. And I would always be thinking if they was cheating on me because every woman I have been with has. Will all but one any ways..... But Poodle just to let you know I dont have your address any more. And you wrote it on your letter where I couldnt make it out. And just so you know I havent talked to Corina in like a year and some thing. But I would like to..... Oh and no one is taking care of my face book page. And I dont write any one but my mom and this Blog... And just so you know I'm really not cool with any one locking up my son in a hospital or any place elus. But I dont have a say and I never did or will I guess..... But if you want me to write you back I need to be abell to read the address you write on it. And Poodle I ask for the same thing as befor letters and pictures from you. Not money or maybe a way I can call you on the phones they have here.

But write Back Soon

Joe
