Thank you for transcribing for me. I appreciate everything you do for me and have done for me. Thank you for the compliments! I often try to write about what situation I am encountering or encountered in the past, as well current events. I ask the Lord according to James 1:5 If any of you lacks wisdom, he should ask God, who gives generously to all without finding fault and it will be given to him. But when he asks, he must believe and not doubt, because he who doubts is like a wave of the sea, blown and tossed by the wind. That man should not think he will receive anything from the Lord. I pray this daily. Because someone needs to hear that one word, situation of how somebody else overcame that ~~situation~~ same situation they are in, somebody needs a direction in a situation they been ~~try~~ trying to resolve but most of all somebody needs to know they can make it through these trials and that they are loved. Yes I go through trials, hurts and feel like I can't make through because it seems like when you get over one thing here comes another problem. My healing comes through helping someone else. Yes I have compassion and humanity for others. But I am the first to tell you it haven't always been like because people can hurt you so bad especially the ones that are closest to you till you don't want to trust another human being. But God is a healer of the Brokenhearted. He did it for me. I humbling accept that God is doing something in your life, because I am just a willing vessel that willing to be used by him. I want to dwell on this line your writing heals me whenever I'm feeling down, even though I am not a deeply religious person. I don't know your name, but God is not mad at you listen you can mess up this very moment! John 1:9 If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just and will forgive us our sins and purify us from all unrighteousness. Unlike man when you do something they will never forget and always condemn you. A person who is religious person they just going through the motion, they are doing ~~it~~ it as ritual. They don't have a personal relationship. Some have a personal relationship with Christ but they do everything out of ritual. I want you to know you are somebody important to me and God. We all sinners saved by the grace of God. Never think you're not worthy enough to come to Him with your problems, when your mess up. God always has opening arms just for you. I have a bunkmate who came back from the women transitional center she relapsed on drugs. She feels so bad that she failed like I told her for God forgives. Proverbs 24:16 For though a righteous man falls seven times, he rises again But what happens most of the time we condemn ourselves or others condemn us - we begin to feel like God is mad at us - he is not going to listen to me. I can't pick up his word. Are we mad at ourselves and feel like we don't deserve to go to God because I am the one messed up. This is what we going to do for my bunkmate. We're going to try to get her in some programs to get help. You see your help start with self. So I say today to you, when you are feeling down, beating yourself, discouragement after discouragement, set back after set back, Door after Door closes in your face, people not ~~trying~~ treating right. There is an answer to all our problems it don't matter if you fail a minute ago. You can still open your word. I remember when I was out clubbing, drinking and hanging out with wrong people. I would still read my bible. I didn't change overnight but as I continue to read I became free of what had me bound. Did all my trouble go away absolutely not but my loads became lighter. The weights I had on me begin to lift. So I told my bunkmate if it's not but one scripture a day. You got to start somewhere. I told her addiction she battling will leave. But she has to start to do something on her own. Another thing she is battling depression and nightmares. I tell her daily you can be free. I battled a painkiller addiction and nightmares from being molested 3 times and later on raped at 21 years old by a ex boyfriend who was HIV positive. I ended up pregnant I thought about abortion but instead I kept my baby. God healed me of the nightmares, pain on the inside, deliver me from the painkillers and it's been almost 20 years no trace of HIV in my body. I use to feel dirty from the 3 molestations and rapes I felt unworthy that if God love I surely would be allow me to go through these things I became angry at God. And started to condemn myself. God had nothing to do with what happened to me. It was the devil that use those people to hurt me. I had to forgive them and stop condemning myself, repent of accusing God and being angry with him. This is just some of my testimonies. If God healed, set me free and delivered me. He is no respecter of person. Today I want to leave you with some encouraging scriptures that can help you when you have any problems. Just know God loves you, he's not mad at you and you have someone that loves you as well, me. Start to read your bible even if it's just one scripture a day
