- LOCAL MARKET BASKET TO INSTALL ANTI-CAPTAIN CAMERAS

It has been reported to Free Speech Central that the Local Market Basket supermarket has been forced to install high-tech cameras in it's store, not for shoplifting or theft issues, but for some stalking and harassment of women in the store by one of NorfolkWorld's light-fingered Captains. Our information has it that The Big Ragu dons a Wife-Beater T-Shirt, grabs a red check-out basket, and stalks the aisles looking to 'squeeze some melons' and 'poke a little cabbage'. The store also reports that several Snicker's bars have come up missing, but that minor loss is not as troubling as the possible legal ramifications of the store becoming a hunting ground for the Captain of Grass Copulatory Cravings. Hopefully Free Speech Central will be able to obtain footage from the new camera system so that we can play it on the Big Screen in Times Square. It is also rumored that none other than Zena The Warrior Princess, or our elite Insecure Perimeter Squad here, has applied to be Director of Insecurity at Market Basket. Her stellar record of postage stamp seizures and K-2 squares confiscation precedes her, but Market Basket fears they may not be able to find a Smokey The Bear Hat in her size. El Grande Cabesa if you know what I mean!

- THE GREEN CHICKENHEAD PLANS TO RETIRE TO THE CAPE / NAVY NERVOUS

Our sources down in the culinary disaster that is the Mainline Kitchen here at WallyWorld tell us that our illustrious Food Services Director, The Green ChickenHead, is making plans to retire to the "Tip" of the Cape this Summer. The Head plans to wear his pink shirts and P-Coat down in Provincetown after leaving his position as the Chicken Stew Nazi here at WallyWorld. The U.S. Navy is investigating some claims The Head has made about his potential retirement plans: i.e. to "celebrate Pearl Harbor day by laying back in the bathtub and having some Japanese squid blow the shit out of him." This would not reflect well on the Navy during these Trump Times. Oh to be back on the Aircraft Carrier playing hide-the-salami!

- SOLITARY CONFINEMENT DOES NOT EXIST AT NORFOLK WORLD / SAY WHAT?

When a recent family member of a man held up in the notorious "R.B." Solitary Confinement Unit here at WallyWorld called our most incompetent Director of Overclassification, Scary Sherry Medusa, she informed this family member that solitary confinement DOES NOT EXIST at the facility. Maybe what she meant to say was that her ability to tell the truth, or earn her paycheck, or to approve a proposal, or to be even a hair competent does not exist. Our Snake Infested Medusa is the quintessential example why the whole system must be torn down and restructured. It can never work with sadistic holdouts from a draconian era gone by like her are allowed to remain on the DOC Blood Money dole. We cannot wait until Scary Sherry does not exist!
