

Love Note

5-6-17

It gets light early here now, it's just 5:30 A.M. and the blackness has turned to blue - it was 95° yesterday - not good weather for an old fat man. I have an upset stomach this morning from something I eat last night. I've been up since before one - moving slow not getting anything done. ☺

I wait... and wait... and wait... I will wait forever for your love is the only thing that keeps me going, keeps a smile on my face - my jannie smile I call it - without this smile I can see no reason to move at all.

My dreams are always of you - my love, of you and I. I know that all I have to do to see you is close my eyes and we're together somewhere, anywhere with you is home, a happy place, a place with you. ☺

I see an old Ford pick-up drive by and I can break down and cry because I know that in another time it is you and I headed off some place "only God knows where or why" but it matters not to us because it's you & I. I know it's always been you and I and will always be you and I. ☺

You let go of my hand long enough for me to shift into 3rd then you put your hand back in mine and we move slowly down the highway to wherever the roads may take us, we don't care or worry as long as the roads we travel keep us together hand and hand. Sleep tight and dream of my my love of us - for I am dreaming of you always. ☺

I love you always for ever and ever - your Steve
