Letter to Daniel Tutka, dated 4 Jul.

Dear Daniel,

Got your last letter. No worries, I have the T.V., headphones, shower shoes, paper & stamped envelopes. (The clothing & vitamins + fish oil were denied.)

DON'T SEND ME MONEY

I owe over 12,000 dollars for lawsuit filing fees + such. Any $ sent to me is taken to pay that. This is one reason I want to write my book: if it is barely successful, I'd earn around ... 40,000, minimum.

In the meantime, don't send me money.

You may, however, send these people some money, once you ensure they know it's to be used for me: www.milwaukee@gmail.com

Jacob Eldrich there regularly writes me. These people are part of our Free Wisconsin Movement, which seeks to end the abusive conditions in prison & unneeded imprisonment too. They are good people, but poor, and busy doing a lot. Jacob just sent me $15, trying to help — it was all taken for my debts. They can buy me more stuff than can you, as you're not in America.

It's weird how things turn out, how people reconnect, who we find to be friends, who turn out to be... not friends.

Yes, I too think I'd have turned out differently if I'd had a stable, healthy family. Think about that a lot. The same is true for many (but not all) prisoners; the waste is, however, particularly stupid in my case, given my intellectual & artistic talents.

I could have been raised/molded in a way that I could be finding "a cure for cancer," providing psychotherapy for troubled kids. Instead, I'm in a cell & use my critical mind doing legal work for other prisoners & myself. Our arrogant American society wastes people.

Anyway, you asked ~~for~~ what I meant about not being able to mail out denied property you send. They only let us mail out denied property, which we can only do if we have $ on our account to pay the shipping costs. Because I'm 12,000 in debt, any property that they deny, I can't mail out — it is destroyed or I can "donate" it to charity (I donate it to charity & hope the charity actually gets it, not guards).

The only mail I can send is in the stamped envelopes people buy me — five pages at a time. (I do have some large envelopes with extra postage, to mail 20-50 pgs. at a time.)

Here is full list of what I can have:

Relax. You can't offend me, because I know that is not your intention. Remember I have a very good sense of humor;
if I can laugh about the asshole next to me saying crazy insults to me, for no reason, I'm not going to be offended by your observations about me.

I'm not that insecure Dan,

By the way, about my family, I wrote my younger brother a couple months ago, told him I forgave him for testifying against me, but could not do so for my mom (she not only testified against me but had sex with a guy to bribe him to also give a false statement on me). Doing so relieved me of some stress. However, my brother still did not realize or acknowledge what was wrong about what he did, that he betrayed me, sold me out for a crappy deal, out of fear + selfishness.

That's a real moral mystery to me, sorta denied my forgiveness.

Image forgiving someone for punching you, but they don't care because they don't think they did anything wrong. Bizarrely he replied to me that he's careful what he says to me because he doesn't trust me, as if I'm the one who sold him out.

So, yes, my family is... not healthy, not "family", which saddens me. Guess I must create my own "family", or friends.

A neurology professor, who seems like a great guy, did recently write me. Like me, he's a super-nerd; so, we may become good friends.

The young woman I told you about, who was the best friend I had, stopped writing, found a good boyfriend. C'est la vie.

Have you heard that American rock song, "How do ya live?"? That's all that we leave behind when we die, well, one of the things, and it's a powerful thing we can do while we live. So, as I said, my most important wish is to find good friends, such as you.

Best wishes,
Nate
