

Reply Id: dwif

Latishathebeau1983

so you found me. That is great. I received this on monday of course and since yesterday was a holiday I waited to response. you know how the mail situation goes. Thanks for your response as well. Yes, It's been awhile since we have spoken. I just got another set off and I have resolved myself to accept what i can't change. As you can see I do get every response. I would like to tell you that my novel is finally going to the publisher. SureShot will be publishing it as soon as I get the original manuscript together to send to them as well as the funds to mail it. Of course my mom has been under the weather with surgeries and what not so I have to use what i am given and make it stretch. family is always going to be a priority for me as opposed to things that I need to be doing and i won't burden them with that stuff. I hope things are well for you. I spend alot of time sleeping, you know? depression will do that to a person but I am trying to get stabilized on this medicine. I draw from time to time but I haven't been motivated to do much of anything. Hopefully when my book finally gets published you'll consider buying a copy. Or at least spreading the word so people can buy it. i have to sell 1500 copies before it can go to the bigger distributors like Amozon if I don't I will have to eat the cost of the 1500 copies so i am promoting it now. I already have a job sort of with them to do freelance articles about various assignments they give me. I love it because it helps me get my name out there in ways I would not be able to on my own. I work with Dutch of the Dutch Trilogies. Do you have any of my pics per chance? If so could you make copies and send them my way? I would really appreciate that. Well, let me end this so you can read it in a timely manner. I look forward to your next response...

I want to say that for anyone in my life I have ever hurt or mistreated, I apologize from the bottom of my heart. I hope one day i can make amends for such actions I can not change. I apologize for everything that i did that may have changed you in a negative way or caused you to feel less about yourself because of something i did or said. I am not nor have I ever wanted to cause one human being in this world one ounce of pain and i hope that each person who read this knows from the bottom of my heart I am sorry. I may never speak to you or hear from you again in life but I hope one day you'll come to read my words and know they are the truth.