

9eme

Love Note.

7/13/17

My love someday go bye a lot slower then others. It all depends on how easy it is for us (you & I) to hold one anothers attention. Its mostly easy for you to grab my attention - just glance my way with that I love you you smiles that melts all my defenses. I hope that the I love you more smiles that automatically appears on my face when I see you or think about that says I always have for you my love will keep me in your heart as well as your dreams as I always carry you in my heart and in my dreams of you by my side <sup>24/7</sup>

This morning I'm thinking of us going out driving on warm summer nights like we use to do - out into the county side, up along winding mountain roads. I can still remember the smells of the fields in the evening breeze, the smell of the pine trees filling the air - the kids all pointing at things and forever asking questions. Then we would stop somewhere and watch the sunset before heading home the kids all falling asleep until there was just the two of us and I could see the happiness in your smile. I miss you - I miss you to the bottem of my soul.

Sometimes now when no one is around I find myself saying - how I've wasted everything and hurt so many I love - forgive me my love. Hopefully in the ever after we will never be apart. Forever + ever
Love Your Steve