

Ronald W. Cluckey
Sept 24, 2017

"FAKE"
NEWS

page 1 of 1

yes theres alot of bad information out there. And on the internet its really bad, theres story's that have been written about me, that with just a little bit of research you could have found the truth. This is nothing new, Fake news rush to judgment, get the story out first, they've been doing this type of stuff for years. Back when I was arrested they printed all types of story's in the news papers that had nothing to do with me, I remember a story that was a completely different crime, I was driving a Black Trans AM and shot some black guys on a corner. Some one didnt do their research.

I've read stories about Josie my and wife and I, that all the reporter had to do was contact the FDOC to confirm the information, Do they do that. No, they just print what ever she says. In fact I seen post on the internet saying that Josie and I never wrote after she got incarcerated. Not true, we corresponded up until mid 2002. The reason we stopped... will its not important.

In 2008 I believe, a friend writes me about a story about me in Australia, says I'm engaged, this woman said she had visited me. A simple phone call to the FDOC would have shown that wasnt the case, she had never been in here. Its amazing that people dont interview every one, and gather all the facts before you put it out there. yes - it seems to be, Fake news is on the rise. Now body cares to research and gather the facts.

Bottom line, believe nothing you hear and only half of what you see for now one is really interested in finding the truth.

Ronald W. Cluckey