went to recreation this morning, spoke with several inmates concerning pushing for a Bill in the Florida senate and House on getting body cameras on these officers and requiring annual polygraph exams. Nope... they aren't with it. That will stop all the cellular phones, drugs, porn, They like the idea of a Bill that will require staff to take a polygraph if he/she is under investigation. yes that would be beneficial to us inmates. But it still wouldn't protect the public, and if you think its not a problem, go File under the Freedom of information act and see how many DR's (disciplinary reports) have been written for cellular phones. I know of three, And if I know of 3, then theres probably — well no telling. But these drugs jeopardize inmate and staff safety. Cellular phones is a good tool for escape, and that puts the public at risk. Look up an escape in the late 90's of Christopher michelson and Jay siglar, they killed a citizen in a high speed chase. so an escape does put you at great risk of a high speed chase, shoot outs ect. These annual lie detector test will assist in the security of these institutions and protecting you the Fla. tax payer. The only staff members who are going to speak out against this Bill are those who are bringing in drugs cellular phones and other illegal contraband. Honest law abiding officers will welcome this Bill. Why? Cause it'll stop 80% or better of the drugs, I've seen guys flip out, doing these new drugs. Thank God these men were in a cage. I wouldn't want to fight some man strung out on K-2, Flaka or whatever their taking, whats going on is dangerous. we need change, you need this Bill, I need this Bill. want to bring change? Then push for this Bill.

I had a meeting around 2:30pm with the Assit warden, she didn't seem to like me. Classification, Captain, major, didn't feel a lot of love, I'm radio active. I've done ticked off the whole administration. Wish I could go back to the July 12, retaliatory shake down. I'd have let it all go and laid low. But that's not what I did, there's no turning back. Got a feeling there's going to be some retaliation. Pray not, but want surprise me if it happens. I don't keep anything in this cell that's not suppose to be here, but that doesn't matter. I've seen staff plant razor blades, shank's and other stuff. It's a part of the F.D.O.C. Dept. of Corruption. Welcome to lawlessness. They don't want to bring change, they talk a good game, but it's just talk. Mandatory psychological examinations, mandatory annual polygraph, Body cameras. That is what we need. Forget about this idel talk, lets bring change. Push this Bill and you'll see true change.
