

To all,

May the grace of the One Source continue to shine on all who come across this missive, I myself continue to move in a positive direction. I have come to learn that it is not what happens in life but what we do or react to it that will define us. You can be faced with growth or destruction. It is in these moments that we can become men or women or we can choose to stay in the same ole rut of despair and blame also known as the proverbial "pity party". Life is fluid and constantly moving there are things that happen for a purpose no I take that back all things happen for a purpose. The question to it is what are you doing? Are you a participant or a spectator? There is a poem by Rudolf Steiner that comes to mind entitled: Light's Weaving Essence.

Light's weaving essence radiates from one to another to fill the world with truth love's blessing gives it's warmth to souls through souls to work and weave the bliss of all the worlds. And messenger of spirit join human works of blessing with purpose of worlds and when those souls who find themselves, one in another can join these both together the light of spirit radiates through warmth of soul.

I think that we all have ups and downs just never give up or in that is the key to it all rest assure there is nothing new under the sun you can do it!!!!!!
