

x9hy

January 1, 2018

Sorry to delay a month in responding. But I Was waiting for my typewriter to get repaired before I started posting blogs again. I had been struggling with a damaged typewriter for a couple of years and just got sick of it.

So oddly enough, instead of typing this on my regular typewriter, I am in the library using one of their typewriters. I just happen to be in the library and using their typewriter is saving my typewriter ribbons. Those ribbons seem so expensive and wear out so quickly. But if I budget my money I can manage to afford them.

I'm glad you like my postings. I don't really have a standard theme or agenda, just to speak out and share whatever I think others would like to know about. So, BabyTuna, I'll make it a point to write regularly now that I have my typewriter back and in good working order.

Happy New Year,

Harlan