

Female Psychology

Some males are just flat good at handling females. They've got that good "female savvy." Matter of fact there are males actually making a living training females! I admire these males ability and special talent. It's always a pleasure to see a good female working right. Females look at males like they're kids who would rather be somewhere else even Sunday school. Female make males feel uncomfortable. Even though everyone tells them it's for their own good.

Years back I went to a lecture and demonstration on "female psychology." The gist of the whole philosophy says it is a matter of will. Since the female is a social animal each one has a pecking order. It's not always the strongest or fastest or biggest that's leader. It's the one with the most dominant personality. So every time a female meets a male ^{she} wants to dominate him. And female remember everything about you forever. I've seen females go bug-eyed and snorty at the sight or even smell of a male.

I took this schooling seriously and came back ready to test my new female psychology skills. I practiced on several bronies ones before I tried it out on my own female, a tall, dark, nondescript, bad-headed, ill-tempered, big footed, long haired typical street fighter name Jeanne D. She wouldn't let me within 20 feet of her after a night out with the boys and immediately got into her "bad actor" routine. I used some of my newly found female psychology. I ran around like a three legged dog, reared, rolled snorted, slobbered, kicked, fell down, cursed and generally made a fool out of myself. Which of course was the plan: female psychology. No one can be mad after laughing at that. Not even a female. :-)

I cannot see
through your eyes
I do always try
all our differences
can be set aside
I glimpse the radiance
of your star
I feel the burn
of your fire
deep inside me where you hold
my heart
within yours. ¹⁻¹¹⁻¹⁸ Steve Bennett something I did wish I could undo

something so wrong
I see it now
like the pain
in everyone's face
irreparable harm
wish I could fix it
so long ago
so surreal
even the hardest of hearts bleed. ¹⁻¹¹⁻¹⁸ Steve Bennett

Most days I struggle mentally and emotionally not to lose control of myself to resist the depression, unhappiness, madness, and discontent. The other night I cry silently, as I do so often because of all the suffering I've caused so many, including members of my own family, my love ones. It torments me without mercy as the things I've done have left me alone in this world. I had a dream I was walking along a dirt road and everyone was there with forgiving hearts.
