

Reply Id: 8ihf

Thank you for the comments. I appreciate everyone who responds to my work. It means alot to know people actually come here and read what I post. I haven't really been posting that much stuff because I tend to get overly discouraged in my environment without meaning to. My brain tends to shut down when there are adverse situations that arise and then I become unable to function. i am distraught because so many people expect me to be unforgiving in this place as they are themselves and yet, I find it impossible to adopt such an ugly character to my ways of living. I want the same chance I extend to those around me but people fault me for it. I DK. Hopefully I will post more in the near future....