"Who Am I?"

A lot of the time we go through life not even knowing who we are, where we come from, and where we are going.

And by not knowing the answers to these questions, we allow ourselves to be tossed around by the waves of life.

Whatever direction the wind blows, that's where we find ourselves going.

We allow the world to answer these questions for us, by accepting whatever title they put on us.

And before we know it, we begin to live our ~~lives~~ lives in a way that matches those titles.

It is amazing how our brain works.

If you tell yourself something long enough sooner or later you begin to believe it, and after the belief happens your body starts responding to it.

For example, if you tell yourself that you want to be a good barber and you start cutting hair, at first you might mess up but after a while without you even being aware of it, your brain will start craving information on how to improve your barber skills, and with every information that has been gathered your body will start responding.

You will find yourself improving along the way.

But if you constantly tell yourself that you're not good at it, and never will be, then you will find yourself always messing up.

Because now your brain is not looking to improve but rather waiting for the mess up to happen, you will also find yourself not wanting to cut anymore and ready to give up.

And this method goes for everything.

As a wise man once said "for as he thinks within himself, so he is."

My brothers and sisters take a look at your life and see where you stand, and where you want to be.

If you want things to start changing in your life for the better, it starts with our thinking.

After we have a thought then we must act upon that thought, for faith without works is dead.

What use is it, my brethren, if someone says he has faith but he has no works? Can that faith save him?

If a brother or sister is without clothing and in need of daily food, and one of you says to them, "Go in peace, be warmed and be filled", and yet you do not give them what is necessary for their body, what use is that?

Even so faith, if it has no works, is dead, being by itself.

Millions of people go through life miserable and unsatisfied because they don't know who they are, they're not doing what they enjoy, and life is wearing them down.

But how can we know who we really are without knowing who created us.

I'm pretty sure that the Creator knows the creation more than the creation knows itself.

Do you want to continue walking through life relying on society to tell you who you are, where to go, and how to live?

It is time to wake up from this sleep that the enemy has placed over us, and realize that there is more to life than meets the eye.

The enemy don't want us to find out who we are and what our purpose is.

And the power that is waiting on us.

Those that separate themselves from the enemy becomes a threat to the enemy.

So he wants us to stay blind and walk in darkness.

That's why he provides us with the things to distract us from the truth, and strengthen the strongholds he already has in our minds since we were a child.

The enemy is a liar and the father of it and his weapon is deceit.
