Thanks for your comment, Ben! As you can see, I don't get a lot of them, which I think probably means I don't get a lot of people reading what I post. But that's expected, I suppose... not a lot of people out there clamoring to ~~read~~ ^{read} the sporadic ramblings of a prisoner. I'm really happy you see this site as a valuable resource though. I'd hoped you would. 😊 Looking forward to hearing from you again, and if you do have a chance to read any more posts here, I look forward to any feedback you have. Please feel free to mention it to anyone else, too... it's hard to find motivation to add content here when it feels like no one ever sees it. Oh, and if you think of it, please let me know about any other blogs on this site that catch your attention... I'm sure there are some good ones, as you implied. Take care!

5-13-17 Took awhile to get this out, but that might be for the best. I just now had an idea... would you like to post a comment here (and maybe on other blogs) explaining your idea & project? You might reach eyeballs of the exact people you hope to contact! And if you want, I'll post an entry talking about it too (though it won't likely be seen by many, if any, people who support me, since few ever visit here). Let me know whatcha think!
